Marin's Armory Groundbreaking Scheduled In May

Groundbreaking for Marin County's $655,000 unified armory, the first joint Marine-Army-Navy reserve center in the nation, is scheduled for next May.

Rep. Clement W. Miller (D-Corte Madera) sent this information from Washington in a telegram to the Independent-Journal today. He said construction was assured by Senate passage of the military construction appropriations bill for the fiscal year 1960.

"We are particularly pleased that the three services will use joint facilities," wired Miller, "because this means a savings of about $210,000 in construction costs, plus several thousand dollars annually on maintenance costs, as compared with the expense of maintaining separate facilities."

HAFB FUNDS UPPED

The Senate Appropriations Committee had recommended and the Senate yesterday approved an additional $138,600 for construction of a powered ground equipment shop at Hamilton Field after Air Force experts testified to the need for such a facility.

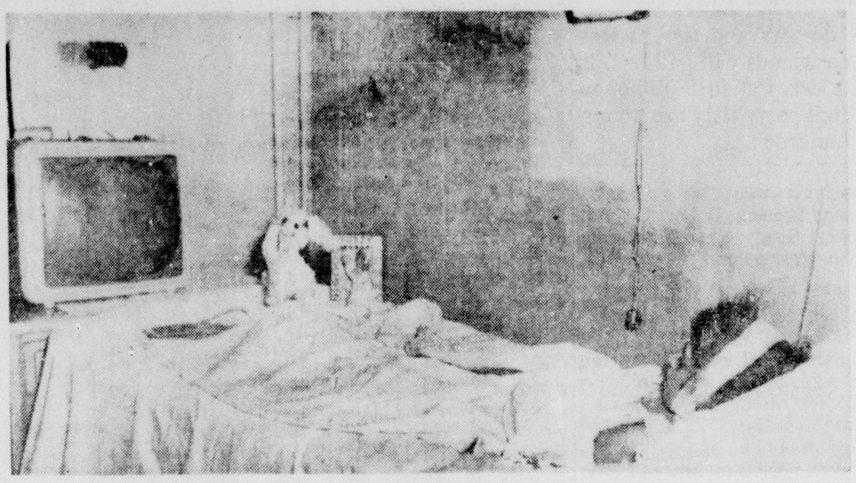

"The Senate bill of $1,400,000,000 is still 9 per cent less than the President's budget request," Miller said.

"The united-based armory will include 242 Marines, 117 Guardsmen and ultimately 59 Navy electronics specialists. The Navy portion of the structure will be built later.

STATE CONTRIBUTES

"The bill actually appropriates $490,000 for the Marine share and $115,000 for the Army. The state will contribute 25 per cent to the Army portion. The Navy share will be about $50,000.

"Advance planning is due for completion by the 12th Naval district public works officer by next March."

A GIFT FROM RED SKELTON

Little Mardella Kleer, 10, of Moscow, Idaho, enjoys the television set sent to her room by Red Skelton, the famed television and motion picture comic. Mardella is suffering from leukemia, the same blood disease which took the life of Skelton's 9-year-old-son, Richard. Skelton chats frequently with the little girl by long distance telephone and has promised a special show for her in the future. Doctors say that since Skelton began showing an interest in her, the little girl has never been happier. (AP Wirephoto)

Brewer To Leave As Hub Manager For Post At Tracy

Arthur W. Brewer, San Anselmo's embattled city manager, has beaten the city council to the punch by accepting a similar job at Tracy, effective Sept. 21, he announced today.

"Of course, I'm leaving with mixed emotions," Brewer said today. "I hate to leave such a fine county, but it's nice to be going to a city that wants a city manager."

Thus Brewer leaves approximately six weeks before his job's scheduled demise. The city council had abolished the city manager form of government by a vote of 3-1 on Aug. 11, to become effective Nov. 1.

Mayor Arthur W. Smith said he assumes the council will hire a city administrator. "We have been talking about that right along. If we can't get one between now and the time Brewer leaves, we'll get along as we did before with the city clerk."

A second and final reading of the ordinance doing away with the city manager job, is scheduled for a Sept. 8 council meeting.

The assault upon Brewer and the city manager form of government had been led by Councilman Carmel H. Booth in what Councilman Carleton G. Little called a "clash of strong personalities."

Councilman Booth, when informed of Brewer's acceptance of the Tracy offer, said, "When we hire somebody in that capacity we don't expect them to take over the duties of the legislative body (council). I feel that some of the powers of the council were usurped by Mr. Brewer. When I came back to the city council in April, 1958, I noticed things that needed looking into further."

(Brewer was named San Anselmo city manager Nov. 4, 1957. Mrs. Booth was not then a member of the council.)

She explained: "All we want is a day's work for a day's pay. I feel that $800 a month plus expenses and a car is a pretty hefty salary for a city the size of San Anselmo to pay a city manager.

"If Mr. Brewer is going to take a job in Tracy, I hope he'll be very happy," she concluded.

Councilman Little, Brewer's sole defender in most of his clashes with Mrs. Booth and the council, said: "The city will regret for many years the decision made by three council

Young Rockefeller Weds Former Maid

SOGNE, Norway (AP) — Anne Marie Rasmussen married Steven Rockefeller today and became a member of the millionaire family for whom she once worked as a parlor maid.

The service lasted 45 minutes. During most of that time Steven hardly took his eyes off his bride.

When she entered on the arm of her father, Steven rose and watched while she walked slowly down the center aisle.

Anne Marie, beautiful in a white wedding gown with a pearl studded veil, kept her eyes downcast. But when she was about 10 feet from the altar rail, she raised her head, glanced at Steven and smiled. She looked pale.

They pronounced their vows in a country church on a gentle knoll, within sight of the bride's family home.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, and Steven's brothers, sisters, and a sister-in-law, witnessed the Lutheran ceremony seated on wooden benches on the right side of the church.

Mrs. Rockefeller and Anne Marie's father, Kristian Rasmussen, retired grocer and fish merchant, sat together near the altar on the right side.

HIGH SPOT

The bride's mother, Lovise, watched the rites from the opposite side of the center aisle, which was decorated with pink carnations and roses.

The high spot in the ritual came when the Rev. Olav Gautestad, vicar of Sogne parish church, asked the young couple, in turn, whether they would take each other as man and wife. Then he said:

"Now give each other your hand on that."

Steven took Anne Marie's hand in his and the vicar placed his hands over theirs and solemnly pronounced the traditional phrase:

"You have promised each other that you will live in matrimony, and have confessed it before God and man and given your hand on it, and I now proclaim that you are man and wife. In the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost."

PRINTED COTTON

Mrs. Rockefeller, tall, slim and blue eyed, wore a black silk street-length dress with a velvet panel in the skirt and a bolero jacket.

Mrs. Rasmussen's costume was a printed cotton pique street-length dress in mauve and white. She wore a large mauve hat.

Anne Marie's sister, Thorhild, acting as her maid of honor, and her bridesmaids, five girlhood friends, stood on the other side.

Nearly 170 invited guests and spectators sat on the wooden benches on both sides of the aisle. One was Trygve Lie, former secretary general of the Bank Robber's Hidden Loot Still Missing

Another search for the missing $12,000 taken in the Point Reyes Station bank robbery proved fruitless yesterday.

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, his deputies, and agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation scoured a southern Marin hillside where robber William (Dugie) Williams says he put the money under a log.

Sheriff Mountanos said last night he will carefully review the robber's action as recounted by him. Then, on Monday, Williams will be brought back to Marin from San Francisco for another thorough quizzing to determine whether he is telling the truth. The sheriff said that he will if necessary, put Williams through a lie detector test.

Williams and his wife, Joanne, were living with friends in Terra Linda until last Monday, when Williams held up the Bank of America branch in Point Reyes Station with a sawed-off shotgun. He says he used a toy plastic pistol, too. But bank employees insist it was a real gun.

Both Williams and his wife were previously married. He has three children in Texas, and she has two children who are being cared for by Marin friends.

Williams faces federal charges of armed bank robbery and robbery accompanied by kidnapping. He forced the bank manager to accompany him in the wild getaway ride.

Laos Drops Paratroops At Outposts

VIENTIANE, LAOS (AP)—Laotian paratroopers are being dropped to strengthen a key outpost in the northern province of Sam Neua bordering Communist North Viet Nam.

Communist infiltration has been spreading in Sam Neua, and authoritative sources report the Reds now occupy 20 per cent of the isolated jungle province.

The royal Loatian army has already sent 125 paratroopers to the Muong Peun fortress.

IKE SIGNS PROCLAMATION

It's Official Now— Hawaii 50th State

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hawaii, the jewel-like chain of islands 2,400 miles west of the mainland, has brought the United States of America to an even 50.

Using a dozen pens to sign his name, President Eisenhower proclaimed its statehood yesterday. It was the second time in less than a year that he performed such a historic duty—Alaska became a state Jan. 3.

As Hawaii followed Alaska into the union, the President also signed an executive order fixing the design of the 50-star Flag. With a twinkle, he remarked that he's running out of ideas for flag designs.

The new Flag, which becomes official next July 4, has the same 13 red and white striples. But its square field in the upper left corner has nine rows of stars, arranged in staggered fashion with six and five-star rows alternating.

"All 49 states will join in welcoming the new one—Hawaii—to this union," the President said more solemnly. "We will wish for her prosperity, security, happiness, and a growing closer relationship with all of the other states.

"We know that she is ready to do her part to make this union a stronger nation—a stronger people than it was before because of her presence as a full sister to the other 49 states.

"So all of us say to her, Good luck."

The President began signing the documents at 4:03 p.m. Washington time. The black and white plastic pens he used were distributed to some of those present as souvenirs. The new Flag, its silken folds shining, was unfurled.

Edward Johnston, secretary of Hawaii, rushed to an open telephone in the next room at the White House to give the news to Gov.-elect William F. Quinn, who was waiting in Honolulu's Iolani Palace.

It was 10:16 a.m. Hawaii time. "Ladies and gentlemen," Quinn told the gathering in his office, "Hawaii is now a state." He then was sworn in as the state's first governor.

People went about their business on the palm-lined streets of Honolulu. There were no public celebrations.

S.F. Included On Itinerary Of Khrushchev

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev will visit at least six American cities besides Washington during his visit to the United States, it was announced today.

Khrushchev will arrive in Washington Sept. 15 and will leave for home on Sept. 27.

His itinerary was announced in a statement from the vacation White House.

It said he will be accompanied on his American tour by Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, as the personal representative of President Eisenhower.

Khrushchev's visit will begin and end in Washington. He will spend Sept. 15 and 16 in the capital, then tour the country, and return to Washington the night of Sept. 24. He will then remain in Washington until he leaves for home on Sept. 27.

Other stops on his tour will be New York City, Sept. 17 and 18; Los Angeles Sept. 19; San Francisco Sept. 20 and 21; Des Moines and Ames, Ia., Sept. 22 and 23, and Pittsburgh Sept. 24.

Giants Win, Hike Lead

The San Francisco Giants today won their third in a row from the Philadelphia Phillies 8-1 and increased their National League lead to three and a half games over the Los Angeles Dodgers who lost 2-0 to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Quake Victim Hunt Ends In Stricken Area

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. (UPI) — The search for possible additional dead in earthquake-triggered landslides in southwest Montana was officially called off today.

Ten persons were known dead and others were feared buried under an estimated 50 million tons of rock, mud and debris that thundered down a mountain early Tuesday damming the Madison River.

"All we can do is put up a monument to the unknown dead there," said Madison County Sheriff Lloyd Brook.

NO MORE BODIES

The lake formed by the crumbling mountain continued to spew up parts of cars, camping and fishing gear, but no bodies were reported.

Skin divers also called off the underwater search for fear that recurring aftershocks — which are so frequent residents have stopped counting near the 400 mark—would jar loose the slide.

Meanwhile, in Yellowstone National Park Old Faithful Inn closed today because the parents of many college student employes asked them to leave the quake area. The inn near the famed geyser was temporarily closed Tuesday due to falling plaster, but reopened that night.

MANY MISSING

Red Cross officials reported that 1,500 persons were still unaccounted for. But most of these were presumed still in remote areas of the West Yellowstone region and had failed to get in touch with relatives.

Damage estimates from the earth-wrenching shock climbed steadily. Norman Wood of Portland, Ore., Bureau of Public Roads engineer, said 20 miles of Montana State Highway 1 rimming the north shore of Lake Hebgen would have to be replaced, at a cost of between three and four million dollars.

Earlier the U.S. Forest Service said damage to its property in Gallatin and Beaverhead National Forests would total at least $500,000.

Offer Made To Teamsters By Employers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A new employer offer in the deadlocked teamsters' strike was reported presented informally today to a segment of the union's negotiating committee.

The report stirred a flurry of hopeful rumors about strike settlement.

George Hillenbrand, federal negotiator, declined to confirm reports of the new offer or describe its terms. But he said he had invited both sides in the controversy to a full scale negotiation meeting Monday.

The time will be decided upon later.

In the East Bay area, a strike of beverage drivers halted some deliveries of soft drinks yesterday. Official announcement of the strike, its extent and its possible connection with the San Francisco teamsters walkout was lacking.

A spokesman at the Canada Dry plant in Berkeley told the Associated Press all deliveries were halted there when pickets appeared at midnight Thursday. He said he was told 120 beverage drivers were striking in the area.

Most plants do not operate on Saturday and spokesman were unavailable.

Jury To Hear Children Of Accused Man

Two children of murder suspect Robert Burdette Rogers, 37, whose wife was found shot to death in a San Rafael home two weeks ago, will testify before the Marin County Grand Jury Monday night.

Assistant Dist. Atty. Roger Garety said Rogers' attorney, Gregory Stout, called him yesterday and promised to bring the children here to testify. Barbara Rogers, 17, and Larry, 10, were in San Rafael at the time of the shooting. Whether or not they were actually in the house at the time has not been determined.

Also subpenaed to testify before the grand jury is Mrs. Harvey Rogers of Pasadena, sister-in-law of the defendant.

An Aug. 9 the body of Mrs. Bertie Rogers, 35, was found at 9 Greenwood avenue, San Rafael. She had been shot through the back of her head.

According to Rogers' attorney, the defendant and his wife had argued about another man. Rogers had brought a gun to threaten his wife into staying with him, the lawyer related. Rogers claims the firing was accidental.

Rogers is a San Gabriel contractor. On Aug. 10, he appeared at the San Rafael police station and turned himself in.

Most Of U.S. In For Humid, Hot Weekend

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Most of the nation today sought someplace cool to spend a weekend that shaped up as the hottest and most humid of the summer.

The Weather bureau forecast little relief from the wave of muggy heat which has sent the "discomfort index" soaring to new highs.

More hot, humid weather, punctuated by scattered thunderstorms, was predicted from the Rockies to the Atlantic Seaboard.

The Chicago Weather Bureau yesterday noted the city's 95-degree temperature and 48 per cent humidity and came up with a discomfort index of 85—the highest of the year.

Any index over 79 is supposed to mean misery for almost everybody.

Washington, D.C., also reported a 95. Newark, N.J., had a 96, Boston and New York baked in 93-degree heat, Dallas had a 91, and Detroit and Kansas City both reported 90-degree readings.

Severe storm warnings were hoisted in central and northeast Nebraska, southeastern South Dakota and extreme northwest Iowa.

Congress Has Hacked 235 Millions From President's Money Requests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both branches of Congress now have passed 15 of the 16 money bills for the current financial year, and the goal of a fair-sized budget cut appears to be in sight.

The Senate cleared a $1,428,178,700 military construction measure yesterday, its 15th fiscal 1960 appropriations bill, and now has only the foreign aid bill to debate. The House has acted on all 16.

Thirteen of the 16 measures actually have been sent to the White House. On these an overall reduction of 235 million dollars below President Eisenhower's requests has been achieved.

But the biggest cut of all is almost certain to be made on foreign aid. When this measure and the two money bills still being worked on by Senate-House conferees reach the White House, the reduction is expected to exceed a billion dollars. It may reach almost a billion and a half.

The House claimed a cut of a $1,244,000,000 in its action on the foreign aid bill, although some legislators have charged this was achieved partly through legerdemain with figures.

These sources contend that the budget figure of $3,436,277,000 used by the House as Eisenhower's request for foreign aid is too high, and that thus the cut is overstated.

The two other bills which have not gone to the White House are military construction and an independent offices measure. Both are in conference between the two branches. Each will be somewhat below the budget.

The Senate, on the 15 bills which it has passed, has voted about 193 million dollars more than Eisenhower requested. But the House, on the same measures, was about $1,661,000,000 under the budget.

Of the 13 bills on which Congress has completed action, 11 were reduced below the President's request. But the other two wiped out a good part of the cuts made on the 11.

The bill carrying funds for the Health, Education and Welfare, and the Labor Departments was 259 million dollars over the budget. The water projects bill, on which the President has not acted, is 30 million over the budget.

The 16 bills do not include the permanent appropriations which are an important part of the spending budget.

Beach Weather For Bay Area

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — It's going to be beach weather for Bay Area residents this weekend, the weatherman predicted today.

However, he warned sunseekers to wait for afternoons when the morning coastal fog will drift away, leaving fair skies.

High temperatures forecasts were San Francisco 78, Oakland 80, San Mateo 80 and San Rafael 83. Low tonight will be 55 to 60 with westerly winds eight to 16 miles per hour late today.

MT. TAM MEDICS LOSE THEIR PATIENT, BUT NO ONE MOURNS

Medics at the 666th Aircraft Control Warning Squadron atop Mt. Tamalpais yesterday afternoon performed a caesarian operation with no advance warning of its possibility.

The operation was performed on a rattlesnake.

S/Sgt. Robert B. Edwards, whose assignment keeps him close to the familiar "Bubble" on the peak, has seen enough snakes in the area so that he always keeps near at hand an approved-type forked stick for capturing them.

Yesterday, on his way to duty, he saw a rattler. With his trusty "weapon," he successfully captured the reptile. In accordance with established practice, he carefully transported it alive to the station's dispensary where A1/C Earl Whited, medic on duty, observed a suspicious bulge in the snake's otherwise slim figure.

He decided on an immediate caesarian, which produced five little snakes.

The ordeal, however, was too much for the mother rattler and she was dispatched. The offspring were carefully preserved in a jar of formaldehyde.

To hunter Stewart went the prize. He has the five rattles and button from the snake's tail.

He said that yesterday's catch was the fifth in the last few weeks.

Trinity Junior Choir Gathers For A Party

Members of the Junior Choir of Trinity Lutheran Church in San Rafael, were entertained recently by their director Mrs. Carl Yeager. A swimming party was followed by games and refreshments at Mrs. Yeager's home.

The members hope to make this an annual "Back to Rehearsal" get-together, in addition to a traditional mid-year luncheon at the church. At the present time the choir is composed of about 30 boys and girls of fourth through seventh grade level.

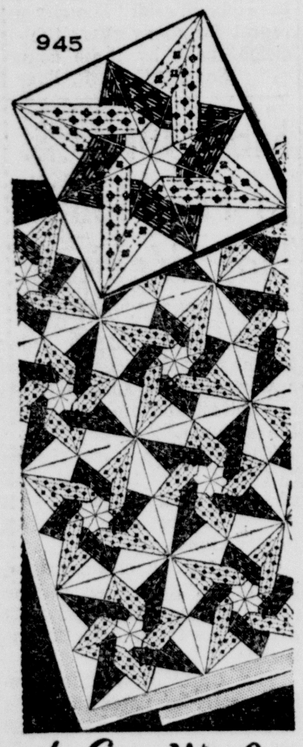

Attending the party were Mike O'Heron, Pamela Jackson, Barbara Lefkin, Jimmie Standard, Robin Casselman, Martha Puente, Jule Schulz, Lottie Kaholakula, Rhonda Rosko, Mark Burnett, Susan Schulz, Schelia O'Heron, Peggy Rosko, Nancy Loeber, Janet and Linda Schmiedeberg and Dalene and Bonnie Hitzeman.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Plumhofs' Soiree Honors Landrocks

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

About 150 Marin County doctors and their wives with a number of other long time friends will gather this evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Calvin Plumhof in Greenbrae for the farewell cocktail party they are giving to honor Dr. and Mrs. George Landrock.

Dr. Landrock, who has practiced for 37 years in Marin County, recently retired. He and his wife are selling their Mill Valley home and about the first of October will leave to reside in Scottsdale, Ariz., where they have extensive holdings. It is not as if they were going to reside among strangers. They have been going to Scottsdale for 14 years and have many friends there. However, they plan to return to Marin often, as their daughter, Mrs. Stuart Burt, lives in Corte Madera, and their son, John Landrock, is a Mill Valley resident.

LEAVING on Sept. 19 for a European tour are the Russell D. Keils of Keil's Cove, Tiburon. They will fly to London, tour the British Isles and the continent and then sail from Le Havre on the "Flandre" for New York. After a couple of weeks there they will go to Missouri to see their daughter, Molly Keil, who was graduated from Dominican in May and will be a freshman at Stephens College. Then the Keils will fly back to California. Last night they hosted a dinner party following the rehearsal for the wedding of Kathleen Lewis and Robert Campbell which is taking place this afternoon at St. Hilary's Church.

A LUNCHEON at Alta Mira on Tuesday, given by Mrs. Robert B. Finn and Mrs. Louis Stefani, honored Mrs. Lewis Aaron. Mr. and Mrs. Aaron and their two daughters, Deena and Susan, are sailing today aboard the "Matsonia" for a two-weeks vacation in Hawaii. They will be in Honolulu for several days as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Sterling. The latter was Mrs. Lillian French of San Rafael. The Aarons will visit several islands and will stay for four days at Hana Maui.

Among the guests at the luncheon were Mesdames James Preston, Robert O'Mara, Robert Grady, Leon Smith and John Merryman.

BON VOYAGE PARTIES have been filling the calendar of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Marriott of San Rafael who are leaving on Aug. 27 for a five months trip on which they will visit three continents. Tomorrow they will be honored at a brunch hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Lauren Mooney at their Sausalito home. The William A. Wachters gave a dinner for the Marriotts at the Alta Mira. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lilienthal hosted a dinner at their home in Larkspur and also a dinner was the party given by Dr. and Mrs. Richard Albert of San Rafael. A swimming party at the Al Girot home in Kentfield was hosted by the Girots and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott. At their home in Northbridge, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jones hosted a dinner for the travelers. Mrs. Ray Hamilton entertained at a luncheon at her home for Mrs. Marriott. Co-hostess with Mrs. Hamilton was Mrs. C. Lloyd Meyer. The Thomas E. Bennetts of Mill Valley are giving a dinner for the Marriotts next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Marriott will sail on the S.S. Francois Pacinotti through the Panama Canal, visting at ports in the West Indies and also on the eastern shore of South American. They will cross the Atlantic to the Azores, sail through the Mediterranean to Genoa where they will disembark. They'll have a rendezvous with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ayer of Lafayette, Calif. in Vienna and then tour Europe. The Marriotts will fly to the Belgian Congo and over Ethiopia where they'll meet a former San Rafael man, Ezra Cornell, who has a U.S. government position in Addis Ababa. Then the travelers will sail up the Red Sea to Egypt and the Holy Land. The Marriotts have not determined what route they will take on their homeward journey.

IN SAN RAFAEL

Marshalls Back From Honeymoon

The recently married Steven Marshalls have returned from a motor honeymoon trip to Southern California and are residing in an apartment at Bradley Arms, San Rafael. The bride, the former Judith Davis, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Davis of San Rafael and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Clifford R. Marshall of San Rafael and the late Mr. Marshall.

The wedding, at 7 o'clock in the evening, took place at the Church of the Latter Day Saints in Greenbrae with Bishop Carl Coombs officiating. The bride's gown of candlelight satin had a slight train. The high necked yoke was chiffon and the sleeves were long and fitted. A coronet of pearls held the bride's fingertip veil and she carried a shower bouquet of cymbidium orchids.

Three San Rafael girls attended the bride. Sharon Hime, maid of honor, wore a pale pink chiffon over taffeta ballerina-length gown designed with a rounded neckline and short sleeves. Similarly styled were the aqua chiffon over taffeta gowns of the bridesmaids. Joyce Arrington and Carol Hall. All three carried French bouquets.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Davis wore a toast colored lace dress and brown orchids were in her corsage. The bridegroom's mother was gowned in two-toned blue organza and her corsage was of white bouvardia.

The bridegroom, who has three brothers, Jack Marshall of Walnut Creek, Terrell and Brent Marshall of San Rafael, and a sister, Mrs. Thomas McGrath of Novato, chose Brent as his best man and Jack as an usher. The other usher was Judy's brother, James Davis, a fourth year student at University of California.

A reception in the church hall followed the ceremony.

The bride, a graduate of San Rafael High School, is employed by the First National Bank of San Rafael. She has a younger brother, Michael Davis, 7, and a four-year-old sister, Lynn Davis. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Brownscomb of Sonoma and Mrs. Emma Davis of Shangaloo, La.

The new benedict, a graduate of San Rafael High School, attended San Francisco State College, and is employed at Cazassa's Men's Shop in San Rafael.

Marin Women

Lauren Mooney, recently associated with Lee in his interior decorating studio, will take over management of the new shop while the Marriotts are traveling.

FROM LOUISVILLE, Ky., Maj. Arlenne Goodridge arrived on Thursday for a week's visit with Mrs. M. Galloway Ferrin of Kent Woodlands. The two first met when Mrs. Ferrin was director of the WAC in the Pacific Theater in 1945 and 1946. Also a houseguest of Mrs. Ferrin is Miss Augusta Mandoso, who is on the staff of the American Embassy in Rome as a cultural specialist.

DEBUTANTE Melinda Menzies, who will make her formal bow to Society at the San Francisco Cotillion in December, will be honored at a reception given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Menzies at their San Francisco home on Aug. 31. And that evening the Menzies' will host a dance for the young set. Before it, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bancroft Jr. will honor Melinda at a dinner. For her also the Charles Mayers and John L. Merrills are giving a brunch at the Merrills' Tahoe home tomorrow.

The Menzieses recently returned to their home on Clay street in San Francisco after a sojourn in Marin. John, son of Robert H. Menzies of San Rafael, was reared here.

THANKFUL they are safe and at home are the Frank Baumgartens of Ridgview Farm in Fairfax, who returned Wednesday night from a three-week's automobile trip. Only a few days before the terrible earthquake in West Yellowstone, they had driven along Lake Hebgen and through much of the area devastated by the quake which threw the side of an 8,000-foot high mountain over the road and into the lake.

Before Mary and Frank went to Yellowstone, they drove to Jackson Hole in Wyoming. They also went to Helena and Missoula and into the back country of Montana, where they stayed at Holland Lake Lodge, with snowcapped mountains in the background. They went to Glacier National Park, headquartering at Many Glaciers, and then crossed over the Canadian border to Waterton Lakes National Park. The return trip included Spokane and Portland. Then the travelers took the coast route home.

Joy Jaegeling Exchanged Vows With Alanson Best In Larkspur

When Joy Jaegeling and Alanson J. Best exchanged marriage vows last night at the Redwoods Presbyterian Church in Larkspur, the Rev. Lloyd Carrick of St. John's Presbyterian Church in San Francisco officiated. It was in St. John's Church that the Rev. Carrick had united Joy's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Thurlow Jaegeling of Larkspur, in marriage 32 years ago and also there he had christened Joy.

Joy, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white lace sheath, which had a white taffeta cummerbund. The dress was designated with a scoop neckline and three quarter length sleeves. A wreath of white taffeta leaves held the bride's short veil and she carried a shower bouquet of Eucharist lilies.

Mrs. William Nichols of Palo Alto, a classmate of the bride at Stanford, was matron of honor. Her gown was emerald green chiffon over taffeta and gold colored chrysanthemums were in her bouquet.

Harry Clark of Larkspur was best man and Robert Dixon of San Rafael, the usher.

Only family members and a few close friends attended the wedding reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Jaegeling.

Mrs. Jaegeling wore a beige ribbon knit dress and a green veiling headdress. Green orchids were her flowers. Mrs. Margaret Best of Kentfield, mother of the bridegroom, wore a teal blue faille dress with a matching hat of veiling, a rose and velvet bows. White orchids were her flowers.

On return from a honeymoon trip of undisclosed destination, the newlyweds will live in the house the bridegroom bought in Kentfield.

The bride, a member of the first graduating class at Sir Francis Drake High School (1952), was graduated from Stanford University cum laude in 1957, the same year she was graduated from the Stanford School of Nursing. She is now a public health nurse in the Berkeley City Health Department.

The bridegroom, whose father is Dr. Elbridge Best of Cedar Ridge, Calif., is the brother of William G. Duggin of Fairbanks, Alaska, Mrs. R. E. Gribi of Eugene, Ore., Mrs. Volney Howard Jr. of Orinda and Mrs. Colin Mason of Kent Woodlands. A graduate of Tamalpais High School, he attended College of Marin, University of Texas and University of California. He is employed by Marin Municipal Water District.

Beauty Tips from ME to YOU

by Opal

Paris is the ideal place for perfection in fashions and make up . . . but this all seems too remote, for those of us who live in the suburbs of San Francisco. San Francisco, as a cosmopolitan city, is known for its well-dressed women . . . but its suburbs are as casual as the weather. It is an artful casualness. This is why "Walter, the Master of Style in his own" is absent from his shop this week., He is in Beverly Hills, getting new ideas in hair styling and the art of make up.

When he returns, watch the paper for classes in make up, so the women in this county will know they are made up properly. Become an expert with your own hands. "What is more important than your mouth?" "Or your hands?" "Then there are your eyes." (Think about it).

The largest teaching staff in the history of Novato Unified School District—including 130 classroom teachers and 10 special instructors—will greet an expected record enrollment of 3,300 pupils when schools open Sept. 10, Supt. William J. J. Smith announced today.

The teacher total is up 14 over last year. Most of the additions, said Smith have been employed to meet expected increases at Novato High School and Hill School.

Thirty-two teachers new to the district were hired from among 250 applicants.

Novato Rider Qualifies For State Contest

Sixteen-year-old Anne K. Porobich of Novato has won the chance to participate in the state riding championship competition at Turlock next October.

This, along with a trophy and a blue ribbon, comprised her reward for victory last Sunday at Santa Rosa in the "best girl rider, English type" class of an all-day regional elimination contest of the California State Horsemen's Assn.

Miss Porobich is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marce M. Porobich of 1831 Indian Valley road, Novato.

The regional competition included both written examination and work with horses, this latter including grooming and two types of riding—flat and jumping. Having two horses, Miss Porobich used both for the two riding tests.

The written examination included terminology of the breeds of horses as well as questions about color, diseases and names of equipment.

Miss Porobich's championship was for Region 1, including Marin and three other Northern California counties. There were three other top winners, all from other counties—best boy rider English type, and best girl and boy riders Western type. All will take part in the statewide competition.

Novato Forum To Hold Picnic In State Park

A picnic to be held by the Novato Forum starting at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Bootjack Camp in Mt. Tamalpais State Park will be open to the public.

Hiking, games and singing are planned, according to Mrs. Virginia O'Rourke, forum member. The group sponsors public discussions on issues of general interest.

Sonoma To Stage Vintage Festival Starting Sept. 26

SONOMA—The 13th annual Sonoma Vintage Festival will be held here Sept. 26-27 in commemoration of the founding of the city and its ascent as a wine-producing center.

The festival will open at 11 a.m. on Sept. 26 with the traditional blessing of the grapes by a Franciscan priest in front of the old Mission San Francisco Solano de Sonoma which was founded in 1823.

The two-day celebration will include an outdoor musical revue, art and crafts exhibits with the artists and craftsmen at work, a flower show, a children's program with a parade, costumed folk dancing, a historical pageant, and the 6th Army band.

Area wineries will hold open house during the festival.

State Cuts Park Acquisition Funds

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—The state Park Commission yesterday announced a 14-million-dollar cutback in a 5-year program to develop the state's recreational areas.

Thirty-five projects throughout the state were hit by the deferment, blamed on a decrease in the revenue from oil royalties.

Of the funds cut, 9 million dollars were to go for proposed acquisition of new areas and 5 million for development.

No Marin project is involved.

FIRE FIGHTING BY CONVICTS EARNS PRAISE

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Convict crews of state prisons and correction camps have worked better than 340,000 man-hours to suppress forest fires this year in California.

The time estimate and praise for the inmates came from Charles A. Connaughton, regional forester for the U.S. Forest Service. He said his figure included firefighting time through July 31 and that it covered work on 39 fires in 10 national forests and 57 fires on state protected land.

He said the manpower was "vitally needed" and that the inmates did "an excellent job."

Widow Of Air Crash Victim Files Claim

Another claim stemming from a plane crash off San Quentin that took four lives a year ago tomorrow has been filed with the Marin County clerk.

Pauline Reeves of Santa Venetia and her two children ask $175,000 from the estate of Godfrey Gunnar Abramson, pilot of the ill-fated plane. Mrs. Reeves' husband, Leonard H. Reeves, 37, and a son, Ronald, 14, were among those killed. Also losing their lives were George P. Yates of Oakland and pilot Abramson.

Mrs. Irma M. Yates is already seeking $50,000 from the Abramson estate for the death of her husband.

Abramson took off from the San Rafael airport on the morning of Aug. 22, 1958. Minutes later his plane plunged into the bay, apparently at full speed.

Drunken Driving Costs Man $200

Jesse Lee Sutphin, 45-year-old Geyserville rancher and mill worker, must pay a $200 fine and remain on probation for one year for his first drunken driving offense.

Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Municipal Court sentenced his yesterday for driving while intoxicated on Sir Francis Drake boulevard near Wolfe Grade Aug. 13.

For the next six months Sutphin may drive only for work and for essential family errands.

Dr. Willis To Take Stand As Witness For Own Defense At Trial Next Week

Dr. Jack E. Willis, 41-year-old Mill Valley obstetrician and gynecologist, declared last night he will take the witness stand in his own defense when trial resumes next week.

His wife, Mrs. Josephine Willis, testified yesterday in Marin Superior Court that she and the doctor cooperated completely with officers when they were arrested last Feb. 3 at their Mill Valley office. The couple is accused of performing illegal operations on several women last year. They deny they performed abortions.

Yesterday the jury went by bus to get a first hand look at Dr. Willis' office at 17 Throckmorton avenue. Attorney Leslie Gillen, representing Dr. and Mrs. Willis, contends that the walls of the office are so flimsy that any cry of pain or screaming by a patient could be heard easily by neighboring offices.

Mrs. Willis said she or their secretary always stayed in the examining room while Dr. Willis treated a woman patient. The jurors got a re-enactment of how Dr. Willis' conducts his examinations when attorney Gillen acted as "patient" for a demonstration to the jury.

Other witnesses called by the defense include Dr. Ralph Weisman, Novato surgeon, and administrators of Marin General and San Rafael General Hospitals. Dr. Weisman said it is not unusual for him to use both anaesthesia and analgesia (which induces twilight sleep) during his examinations, including certain types of gynecological examinations.

Dist. Atty. William O. Weissich contends Dr. Willis used anaesthetics on his patients, and that this is not common during gynecological examinations.

Mrs. Willis will continue on the witness stand when trial resumes at 10 a.m. Tuesday in superior court before Judge Thomas F. Keating. She will be followed by the doctor himself.

About 18,000 letters written by Thomas Jefferson are still in existence.

More Proof That Marin Span Directors Are Ineffective

Marin's two directors on the Golden Gate bridge board don't "carry much water" in bridge district affairs. That was the essence of a comment made in this space some days ago concerning the apparent ineffectiveness of our Marin representatives.

Events since then have tended to confirm the observation. First, a commute club leader who publicly complained of being squelched when he attempted to address a committee of bridge directors, got a real verbal roasting "in absentia" at a recent bridge board meeting. He was roasted for, among other things, having the temerity to come to a committee meeting where they weren't interested in taking time to listen to him.

He had come of course at the suggestion of one of Marin's bridge directors.

A director who can't guarantee "safe conduct" and a courteous reception for a constituent he invites to a bridge meeting must not stand in very high regard among his fellow bridge directors—if they'll treat his guest that way.

Second, the other Marin director made an effort to get some action at long last on the proposal for a Vista Point tourist information center.

Three different groups are on record with requests for an endorsement of the idea "in principle." The Marin Chamber of Commerce Visitors Bureau, the Marin County Board of Supervisors (who appoint Marin's bridge directors) and the Redwood Empire Assn. (comprised of bridge district counties) all have asked the bridge board to endorse the tourist information center idea.

To date the bridge board has pretty much ignored the requests. "We have nothing before us," one director declared.

When one of Marin's representatives attempted to get the Vista Point proposal considered, he couldn't even get a second to his motion to bring up the matter for discussion.

If he cannot even get a request from his own board of supervisors discussed, he likewise must not stand in very high regard with his colleagues on the bridge board.

Since our Marin board of supervisors selects our representatives on the bridge board, they of course must bear their share of responsibility for the present deplorable state of affairs.

TRADE UNIONIST DOES IT HIMSELF

"What can I do to improve the leadership of my union?" was a question one trade-unionist kept asking himself.

He started off by trying to persuade capable friends to run for office at the coming union election. But every one of them begged off. They claimed it was practically impossible for a rank-and-filer to break through the clique that held power.

This discouraging state of affairs tempted him to forget the whole thing. But his conscience kept bothering him until finally the tenacious worker decided to run for office himself.

After a vigorous fight, he was elected to the governing body of the union. Rank-and-filers, impressed by his sincerity, gave him their support.

Once any individual recognizes his own personal responsibility to God, himself and others, he can quickly convert that inner conviction into a driving energy that can overcome almost every obstacle.

"Labor as a good soldier of Christ Jesus." (2 Timothy 2:4)

Deepen in me, O Holy Spirit, a sincere desire to change the world for the better.

Ike Confounds Critics Once More; Wins Key Battles In Congress

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI)—When President Eisenhower starts to win Congressional battles over labor, housing and highways the political wheel has taken just about one full turn.

A year ago, with the slimmest of majorities, the Democrats had the Eisenhower administration and the GOP on the defensive. Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, for example, seemed to be dragging the Republican administration into an admission that unemployment was high and that something had to be done about it.

With nothing but overconfidence to worry about, the Democrats felt they had the Congressional elections won before the first votes were counted.

NOW THEY ARE on the defensive.

Last week was a triumphant and perhaps symbolic one for President Eisenhower in his relations with the Democratic Congress.

Over the opposition of the Democratic leadership and a majority of the Democratic members, the House approved a tough labor reform legislation which carried his endorsement. And the Senate sustained his veto of the housing bill.

The labor vote apparently resulted from a public clamor to support Ike when he asked for more stringent controls on unions. The veto threat has been even more effective.

A majority of the Senate voted to override the housing veto but the move failed when less than the requisite two-thirds supported it.

Eisenhower seemed unable or unwilling to have the veto threat last year. But now he is less bashful.

The veto gives him the equivalent of 16 votes in the Senate and 72 in the House. As he has said, the Constitution makes him part of the legislative process.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED to the union-supported labor bill which Sen. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.) brought from the Senate committee last spring? It was toughened on the Senate floor and rewritten in administration language on the House floor.

What of the scornful reception Democratic leaders gave to Eisenhower's requests for a gasoline tax increase to help solve the highway financing crisis? The House Ways and Means Committee is caving in, at least in part, because a majority of its members knows of no other way to keep the highway program going.

On housing, Senate Democrats backed up a little—but only a little. Eisenhower calls part of the new bill objectionable but admits legislation is compromise and keeps his own counsel about a veto while the outcome is in doubt.

In a minor league contest, Eisenhower objected to one provision of the TVA bond financing bill. But he finally signed it. In what looked like a deal, Congress promptly passed a separate bill to repeal the offensive section.

His heavy commitment for a balanced budget and against inflation underlies most but not all of Eisenhower's arguments with Congress. He is said to object to talk about the "new Eisenhower" but has been persuaded or has persuaded himself to take a more belligerent stand.

But if the political wheel has turned once, it can turn again. The votes in 1960 will not be counted for more than 14 months.

Questions Raised On Rabies Threat

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

A rabid bat and a rabid rat
Sat down to talk to a charming cat.
"Oh, dear," said the cat, "if I'm seen with you,
"This will mean that I've rabies, too;
"Although, in my mind, there is some doubt
"As to whether I'm with it, or whether without.
"And to tell the truth, I'd be just as dead
"To be crushed by a car or hit in the head—
"Just look in Bartlett and you will see
"That not one swallow in a tree
"Makes summer come for you and me.
"Why should one bat, or even two
"Mean epidemics for me and you?"

As nearly as could be determined from the news reports, there was no evidence that the cats had rabies at all. This appeared to be guilt by association. Furthermore, it seemed that after the initial bats; bats were brought in every day, all without rabies.

There are several questions that have never been answered. Probably I am not the only person who continues to wonder:

(1) Why a man who has had his dog inoculated against rabies cannot be sure that this dog will not contract or transmit the disease.

(2) Why anyone bitten by such a dog must take the Pasteur treatment or take his chances.

(3) Why the Humane Society should become involved at all, inasmuch as this did not concern cruel or inhumane treatment of animals.

(4) Why the enforced, expensive, and widespread campaigns against rabies are conducted if compliance does not assure the dog-owner that this protects his pet, himself and all persons and animals with whom his dog comes in contact.

(5) How many people in a given area must have a disease (other than rabies) before it is considered an epidemic.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

"Two mysteries hinder all efforts to end smog in Los Angeles," writes Ray Duncan. "Nobody knows exactly what smog is, and nobody knows exactly what Los Angeles is."

A. A. Milne, whose "Winnie the Pooh" is one of the great children's books of all time, met a colleague in a London bar one noon, and being in an expansive mood, proposed, "Let me buy you a drink. You name it; I'll order it." The colleague decided, "I think I'll have a pint of the best champagne they have." Milne's expansive mood vanished at once. "Oh," he exclaimed, "suppose you try thinking of something nearer sixpence."

WALTER LIPPMANN

We Ought Not Expect Too Much From Khrushchev-Ike Discussions

THE PRESIDENT WILL soon be off to Europe, on the first stage of an extraordinary adventure in personal diplomacy.

We have seen no such display of energy and initiative since the early days of his first administration. For years the present Eisenhower has been quiescent, as it were submerged. But what we see now is not a new Eisenhower. This is the old enthusiastic Eisenhower with his liking for large gestures which sweep aside the concrete details that more worldly statesmen and professional diplomats worry about.

This authentic Eisenhower has for years been throttled down by diffidence, by a lack of confidence in his own political know-how, by his illnesses with their aftermath in a kind of regulated invalidism, and by the authority of his advisors. The world has been surprised now because he looks so well, because he is so active, and because he so much enjoys being on his own. No doubt he is himself as agreeably surprised as are the rest of us.

But this is by far the most didfficult task he has ever undertaken. At Gettysburg the other day he did his best to play it down and to make it seem unimportant. But he cannot make the exchange of visits unimportant in fact. They mark a new phase in the cold war, and he is the central figure of the drama. He will not have an easy time.

AS SUPREME Commander during the World War, he had to work with a coalition of allies and their strong-minded generals. But it was wartime and his bosses were Churchill and Roosevelt.

Now, he is the leading figure in a coalition composed of nations which have many, often divergent, purposes besides wanting to win the cold war. Moreover, he is not dealing with a suicidal maniac like Hitler, but with a practical politician of great resourcefulness who is operating from a powerful ideological and an enormous material base.

IT IS DISCONCERTING to see how many there are among us who think that if only Khrushchev sees with his own eyes our skyscrapers, and how many automobiles there are to make traffic jams in our streets, and all the things that can be bought in shops, and what large factories we have, he will be so impressed that he will give in to us on West Berlin, German reunification, Formosa, Korea and what not.

Mr. K. has no doubt many illusions about who pulls the strings inside the United States. But his illusions do not obscure the fact that the United States is a great military power and that it is quite capable of being provoked into becoming fighting mad.

Soviet foreign policy is not, I believe, based on the notion that if we are threatened with war we will give in and give up. Soviet policy is based, as I understand it, on the calculations of what is possible by measures that are short of war—on measures that, while they are politically effective, need not be imposed by war and cannot be resisted by war.

THE PRESIDENT will be in Bonn for a day and that is much too short a time to work out with Dr. Adenauer a negotiable position on Germany. This will make it difficult for the President to enter into serious talks about Germany when Mr. K. comes to Washington. If the President has to talk from the same brief that Secretary Herter had at Geneva, the German prorblem will remain frozen.

We must bear in mind, however, that all these various meetings are part of a continuing series, and that none, therefore, means a showdown and is conclusive. This is a substantial achievement and, as compared with the alternative of a breakdown of negotiations with heightened tension and more fear of war, the President's personal adventure is well worth the trouble which it will most surely cost him.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Miller avenue folk in Mill Valley were tired of a pneumatic drill tearing up the street.

A helicopter which rescued Terrence (Kayo) Hallinan home in Ross, landing on the from Yosemite after he had fallen off a horse and hurt his head dropped in socially at the Hallinan home in Ross, landing on the front lawn.

20 YEARS AGO

San Rafael's Police Chief Barney Ruschetti was told he must dismiss three subordinates, 14 police officers and one office clerk, or cut salaries—anyhow, effect enough economies to keep within a monthly budget of $2,357.

Marin County was to receive $22,232.08 in license fee allocations for its 16,345 motor vehicles.

It's Rugged Year For Vacationers, As Sharks, Mother Nature Act Up

This has been a rough vacation year.

Sharks scaring bathers off the beaches. Yosemite Falls dried up and the valley smoggy from forest fires. And then that earthquake shaking up Yellowstone Park.

Here's a first hand report from Yellowstone. San Rafael Police Officer Roy Conyers got a phone call from his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Conyers, Wednesday morning. They were away from the danger zone but even then, Mrs. Conyers said she thought "a big bear had got hold of the back end of our pickup truck and was shaking it up and down."

They tried for a day and a half to get a call through from Butte, Mont., to San Rafael.

YOU CAN'T BLAME Marin residents for deciding to go to Europe instead. In fact, it's going to be almost like San Rafael Homecoming Week in Italy during the next few weeks.

San Rafael Tax Collector Angie Soldavini and Judge and Mrs. N. Charles Brusatori may bump into each other at the village of Lonate Pozzolo near Milan. Their ancestors came from there. Among others already in Italy or headed that way in a few weeks are Harry and Rose Albert, Charles and Mrs. Marcus, Charles Owens, H. W. Elliott, Angie Turrini, George Sylvestri and still more.

Speaking of foreign travel, Capt. Clint Atherton of San Rafael is with the Air Force in Spain. The other day they were driving along in their American car and turned on the car radio. The Spanish announcer kept introducing Spanish music. Little Claudia Atherton, 5, just couldn't understand it. "Hey, how come this radio plays only Spanish music when it's an American car?"

FRIENDS IN Point Reyes Station tell me there was one ironic twist to that $14,000 bank robbery. The robber had just recently bought the car in which he made the getaway. The car was financed by the same Point Reyes Station bank he robbed.

Bank Manager Al Cencio, forced to ride with the robber as hostage, was in effect riding in his own car! Anyway, that's the story that's making the rounds.

The new municipal court judge for Marin is going to be getting plenty of exercise, if plans go through as scheduled. Seems his new courtroom will be the San Rafael City Hall, across the street from the courthouse. His chambers may be in still another building. You can just picture the judge dashing back and forth in his new judicial robe, with court attaches scurrying after him.

MARSTON HECHT, proprietor of a candy and gourmet store at Montecito Shopping Center, is still shaking his head. Seems he put in orders months ago for a special tea called Constant Comment from an Eastern firm.

No response. More orders and letters. Still no answer.

Then the other day, in walks a Homburg-hatted gentleman with a can who sniffs around the imported chocolates, herring and sauces, eyes the decor, and samples a licorice drop.

On leaving, he passes this on to Hecht: "From the Constant Comment people. Your store qualifies. You may resubmit your order. Have to be careful, y'know."

Brown's Comments On Presidency Recall Campaign Against Knowland

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown, who by this time should be in the High Sierra spending several days fishing, may have some time for further meditations.

The Governor announced recently that meditation had convinced him an earlier statement, to the effect he would not accept the Presidential nomination and would refuse ot serve if elected, was unpatriotic.

Brown's statement, along the lines credited to Gen. William T. Sherman of marching - through - Georgia note, was made in 1957. It was accompanied with the charge that then U. S. Sen. William F. Knowland was running for the governorship only to use it as a stepping-stone toward the White House.

Brown's "unpatriotic" statement was intended to assure California voters that a vote for Brown was a vote for a man with no presidential aspirations.

IN HIS MOST recent statements on the subject, when confronted with his early pronouncement, Brown said:

"I can only say that any man who turned down a nomination for the Presidency would be unpatriotic and lacking in the slightest concept of his duties as an American citizen. I did say that 'If elected I would refuse to serve,' but, upon meditation on a situation such as that, I just feel that it sounds unpatriotic for me to say that you turn down the Presidency of the United States."

THUS BROWN'S accusations directed toward Knowland during the 1958 governor's campaign may now be interpreted, following meditation, as mainly that the Senator must have been a very patriotic man indeed.

While tempting the trout in the High Sierra, Brown also may want to meditate a bit about the recent action of the California Labor Federation at its convention in San Diego. At that meeting a resolutions committee refused unanimously to adopt a resolution praising the Brown administration.

Once out on the floor, the convention approved its committee's action, also by a unanimous vote.

Had the resolution been defeated in committee by a split vote, even if overwhelmingly opposed to Brown, or had the floor action been one with some votes in the governor's favor, there probably would be less cause for meditation.

However, the convention membership included a number of appointees and supposedly strong supporters of Brown. With not even a single voice raised in his behalf, the defeat was given more sting.

Refugees Today's Forgotten People

By LOUIS CASSELS

SALZBURG, Austria (UPI)—"You want to know what the World Refugee Year is all about?" asked Arthur Foster. "Come out to Camp Parsch and see for yourself."

We drove through the quaint, narrow streets of old Salzburg, past the house where Mozart composed his concertos, and out into the rolling Austrian countryside. At the foot of a small mountain, we came upon a bleak group of unpainted wooden barracks. The tar-paper roofs were tattered with leaky-looking patches. Many of the windows were broken. High weeds surrounded the barracks. The unpaved streets were sloughs of mud.

"Hitler built this place as a slave labor camp," said Foster. "It has deteriorated quite a bit since then."

Three young children squatted alongside the road, stirring a mud puddle with sticks. A white-haired man lounged aimlessly in the doorway of one of the barracks.

THERE 14 YEARS

"There are about 250 refugees living in this camp," said Foster, a kindly, dedicated Englishman who heads the Austrian refugee work of the world council of churches. "Most of the adults have been here—or in other camps like this—for 14 years, since the end of the war. The children were born here and have never known any other life."

He parked in front of barracks 14 and led the way inside. His knock at the door of the first room was answered by a short, fat woman whom he introduced as Frau Dobgaiew. Foster spoke to her in German, and translated her story into English for me.

She was a Yugoslav and was married to a Russian whom she had met in a Siberian prison labor camp. Somehow they had escaped to Austria at the end of the war. They had applied for emigration to America, Australia, Canada, Belgium and Sweden, but no country would accept them because her husband had a lung condition. So they continued to live, with their five children, in two rooms of the barracks. Her husband had found a job in a Salzburg marble works.

PROUD OF EARNINGS

"How much does he earn?" asked Foster.

"If he works overtime on the weekends, he makes 400 schillings each week," Frau Dobgaiew replied with evident pride.

I reached for my currency converter. "Don't bother," said Foster. "It comes to 16 dollars a week in American money."

"How do they live on that?" I asked when we were outside again.

"They are relatively fortunate," he said. "Many of them can't find jobs of any kind. Austria is a small country and it is fairly awash with refugees. The unemployed families get a welfare dole from the government. It amounts to about six dollars a week for the whole family."

MANY OUTSIDE CAMPS

There are 140 camps like Parsch in Austria, Germany, Greece and Italy. They are occupied by a total of 32,000 refugees. There are also about 100,000 refugees who live outside of camps, but who have not been permanently settled. Their plight often is even worse than that of the camp residents.

Finding homes and jobs for these forgotten people is one of the major purposes of the World Refugee Year, which began July 1.

Some of them could be resettled in other countries—if immigration restrictions which now bar them were eased. But many of them are too old, too sick or too demoralized to start afresh in a new country.

"These are the people nobody wants," Foster said. "That's why the church is here."

New Minister To Preach At Outdoor Rites

One of the newer members of Marin County's ministry will conduct the outdoor services at Samuel Taylor State Park tomorrow.

He is Rev. Max Hively, assistant pastor of the First Baptist Church of San Rafael.

Assisting Reverend Hively will be a group of students from the new Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary at Strawberry.

The services, to begin at 9 a.m. in the Camp Fire Circle above the camping area, is open to both campers and those picnicking in the park. All are invited to attend in camping attire.

The Marin County Council of Churches is the sponsor.

Two Laymen To Talk To Hub Baptists

Laymen will occupy the pulpit at the First Baptist Church in San Anselmo tomorrow.

J. C. Meagor Jr., who will soon enter the Fuller Theological Seminary, will preach at the 11 a.m. service.

Tom Perrin, a Sunday school teacher in the high school department who also expects to enter the ministry, will speak at the 7:30 p.m. service.

More Negroes In Catholic Schools

WASHINGTON (AP)—A growing number of Negroes are enrolling in Roman Catholic schools, both integrated and segregated, a commission for Catholic missions among Negroes and Indians reports.

It said that 90,756 pupils are registered in 340 Catholic schools for Negroes, compared with 83,384 students in 343 such schools last year. A similar growth of Negro enrollments exists in integrated Catholic schools, the report said, though no figures are available since records are not kept by race.

POPE'S PRAYERS FOR MOTORISTS

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII has written a prayer for motorists. It was released by the Vatican Press Office.

"Almighty God, who hath created man in thine image," it begins, "let us drivers feel our great responsibility and show us the way of charity and prudence . . .

"Immaculate Virgin, guide us in our earthly journey, defend us from dangers of the soul and body and make us good and patient toward persons who are under our care . . .

"Angels . . . saints, give us strong faith by which to dedicate our life to go and keep us ready for the last journey to the eternal homeland."

TOPPLING STEEPLE

ONCE SHUNNED

Vermont Shrine Honors Mormon Religion Founder

SOUTH ROYALTON, Vt. (UPI)—A shrine honoring a man and a religion Vermonters once shunned is being constructed in this little central Vermont town.

The $250,000 project "will be the loveliest of all Mormon historic sites with the exception of the temple at Salt Lake City," according to elder Nathan Tolman of Berkeley, present caretaker at the Joseph Smith Memorial Farm. It will become an information center.

The building, scheduled for occupancy in November, will honor Smith, described as "prophet, seer and revelator" of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-Day Saints, better known as Mormons.

Smith, whose ancestors arrived in New England a century before his birth on Dec. 23, 1805, was born on a farm in Sharon a few miles from here.

When Smith was 10 years old the family moved to Palmyra, N.Y. Evangelists staged one revival after another there. It was at Palmyra that Smith, according to biographers, had the visions that resulted in the founding of the Mormon Church.

His followers were finally blended into an organization at Farette, N.Y., on April 6, 1830 and Joseph Smith was their first president.

The most controversial aspect of their religion was polygamy, or as the Mormons called it, "plural marriage." Because of this they were persecuted and driven westward. Vermonters rankled whenever it was noted that Smith was a native of the Green Mountain State.

Joseph Smith and his brother, Hyrum, were shot to death in Carthage, Ill. on June 27, 1844. At the time they were in jail being "protected" from a mob.

Brigham Young, another Vermonter, then became the leader and the best known of the Mormons.

Church Touring Guide

CHICAGO (AP)—The Methodist Church is issuing a "U.S. Methodist tourist map" for use by travelers who would like to visit Methodist institutions on or near highways over which they take vacation trips.

Prof To Preach At Sleepy Hollow

Dr. Martin Anton Schmidt, assistant professor of church history at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, will preach tomorrow to the congregation of the Sleepy Hollow Presbyterian Church.

Services will be held at the home of Dr. Jesse H. Baird, president emeritus of the seminary, at 25 Deer Hollow road.

McELHENNY ROMPS — Shifted to flanker in the San Francisco 49ers offensive lineup, veteran Hugh McElhenny will make his first start at that position against the Green Bay Packers in a National Football League exhibition game at San Francisco's Kezar Stadium tomorrow. Here McElhenny is shown ripping over tackle last Sunday in the 49-ers' season-opening win over the Washington Redskins. (Independent-Journal photo)

49ers, Packers In Game Tomorrow

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers meet Green Bay in a National Football League exhibition tomorrow with some old faces in new places.

Red Hickey, going after his second Kezar Stadium victory as 49er head coach, has mixed both line and backfield to give more punch to the offense and additional beef to defense.

Game time is 1:30 p.m.

Green Bay, winner of only one game last season, is on a rebuilding kick. New Coach Vince Lombardi has traded for seven NFL veterans and indicates more of the 26 Packers left from last year may be out before the regular season opens Sept. 27.

The newcomers include quarterback LaMar McHan, from the Chicago Cardinals; Em Tunnell, a 12-year veteran defensive back acquired from New York; and Lew Carpenter, ex-Cleveland speed back.

Hickey plans to start John Brodie at quarterback, Jim Pace at running back, Hugh McElhenny at flanker and Joe Perry at fullback.

R. C. Owens, a flanker two seasons as a 49er, goes to end.

Only two rookies, Monte Clark, 260, offensive tackle, and Dave Baker, defensive halfback, will start for the 49ers. Several others will get plenty of work, including linebackers Bob Harrison, Don Rogers and Mike Dukes, center Dan James, tackle Frank Geremia and defensive halfback Eddie Dove.

The 49er defensive line remains the same—1,040 pounds of Charlie Krueger, Leo Nomellini, Frank Morze and Bob St. Clair. The last two shifted from offense and looked impressive, though green, in the 49ers' 27-24 victory last week over Washington.

The Packers lost their opener 19-16 in the last 41 seconds to the Chicago Bears.

Hickey, with McElhenny and rookie Paul Lowe operating at flanker, has designed some new plays calling for more running. Lowe went 78 yards in one play against Washington.

Lombardi has four quarterbacks but probably will go with Babe Parilli and Joe Francis, ex-Oregon Stater. McHan and Bart Starr worked the Bear game.

The beefy Packer defense is anchored by two veteran tackles, Dave Hanner, 260, and Jerry Helluin, 270.

Two Semi-Pro Games Set

The Tiburon Pelicans will try to make it two in a row over their arch rivals, the San Anselmo Ongaro Plumbers, in a semi-pro baseball game tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. at the San Anselmo Memorial Park.

Manager Ed Vigno Sr. of the Pelicans will start the same lineup that won over the Plumbers, 2-1, last Sunday, except Buzz Wensloff will pitch in place of Fred Thurman.

In another semi-pro game tomorrow, the Mill Valley Merchants will take on the Sixth Army nine at the Mill Valley field at 2:30.

Marin Junior Net Champs Are Crowned

Harvey Klyce of San Rafael yesterday won the "boys 15 and under" singles championship of Marin in the county junior hardcourt tennis tournament at Mill Valley.

Klyce defeated Brian Laurie of Mill Valley, 6-2, 8-6, in final round play.

In the "girls 15 and under" division, Pat Blaskower of Ross won the title with a 5-7, 6-4, 6-2 come-from-behind win over Roberta Roundtree of San Francisco.

Other final round singles results:

Boys 13 and under, Jeff Brown of Sacramento def. Westy Hoffman, 1-1, 6-2; boys 11 and under, Charles Alloo def. Robert Alloo, 7-5, 6-4; girls 13 and under, Jean Danilovich of Jackson def. Carol Gay of Los Angeles, 6-0, 6-0; girls 11 and under, Rosemary Casals of San Francisco def. Lynn Gosser of Mill Valley, 6-2, 6-0.

Doubles final results:

Boys 15 and under, Harvey Klyce-Brian Laurie def. Steve Loeck-Tori Bryant, 7-5, 6-3; boys 13 and under, Jeff Brown-Bruce Gordon def. Bob Gruhler- Charles Alloo 7-5, 6-3; girls 15 and under, Leslie Abrahams- Noreen Segerguist def. Gloria Segerguist-Carol Carneglia 6-3, 2-6, 6-2; girls 13 and under, Jean Danilovich-Leslie Abrahams def. Marcia Johnson-Barbara Strong, 6-0, 3-6, 6-3.

Rams Drop Close One To Redskins

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A happy tribe of Washington Redskins headed for home today, victors over the Los Angeles Rams in a game that had most of the earmarks of a regular season battle.

The 'Skins edged the Rams, 23-21, in an exhibition that was a bitter disappointment to most of the whopping crowd of 85,888 in Memorial Coliseum Friday night.

The Redskins got off to a 2-point safety early in the first quarter and fell back 7-2 a few minutes later. But with quarterback Eddie LeBaron putting on a great show and workhorse backs Johnny Olszewski and Dick James ripping the Ram defense, the 'Skins surged again into the lead and never lost it.

Halfbacks Jon Arnett and Tom Wilson and end Del Shofner starred for the Rams, but the debut of Ollie Matson, late of the Chicago Cardinals, was throttled by the Redskin defenders.

At Dalles, Texas, the NFL champion Baltimore Colts romped away from the team they beat in the league playoff last year, the New York Giants, 28-3. It was strictly "no contest" as the Colts' big line held the Giants in check and allowed only a field goal by Pat Summerall, while the Colts were breezing to their 28 points.

Strike Stalls Work On Giant Stadium Seats

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Installation of seats at Candlestick Park came to a halt yesterday although four carloads have been on a nearby railroad siding for two weeks.

Striking Teamster Union members refused to allow unloading, said John H. Lewis, job superintendent for American Seating Co.

"As a result," he added, "I received order yesterday to lay off all but a skeleton crew of five men. We had an original crew of 46."

This added complications to preparing the San Francisco Giants' new stadium for possible World Series play.

Lewis noted about 24,000 chairs have been installed. He said it will take at least 30 days after deliveries are resumed to build seating capacity to 38,000.

Von Clay In KO Win Over Sonny Ray

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—"We'd fight Archie Moore tomorrow, if we could, and very probably we will soon," said Von Clay's happy manager, Anthony Graziano last night.

"We're guaranteeing Yvon Durelle $10,000 to fight Clay on Oct. 9 in Philadelphia," announced promoter Herman Taylor and matchmaker Pete Moran.

It seemed like optimistic talk regarding a 29-year-old fighter with only 11 pro fights, but that was the mood last night after Clay finished off Sonny Ray, the fourth-ranked light-heavyweight, in 56 seconds of the fifth round of a scheduled 10-rounder.

The decisive victory, in his first nationally televised NBC fight, meant that Clay, had reached the top ranks of his division — and Ray's comments reflected the blow dealt to his career.

Three tentatively scheduled fights, the 23-year-old Chicagoan said, without going into detail, probably will have to be cancelled.

Harshman Win Keeps Indians On Sox' Heels

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jack Harshman, unable to hold jobs with two clubs because he couldn't win, now is Cleveland's surprise crutch, giving the Indians the left-handed pitching Herb Score was supposed to deliver in their run for the American League pennant.

Harshman's bad back led to a "damaged goods" squawk by Baltimore after a 1957 winter deal with the Chicago White Sox. But he stuck with the Orioles and won 12 last year, three of them shutouts.

This season, his back still corseted, Harshman was 0-6 and the Birds traded him to Boston. He won two for the Red Sox, then lost three and they sold him to second place Cleveland.

Now, with Cleveland scrambling to catch the White Sox, Harshman suddenly has won two, saved one and lost none—figuring in half of the Indians' six victories in their last 11 games.

The big southpaw, 32,won his second last night, blanking Baltimore on three singles for a 5-0 decision that gave the Injuns a three-game streak and left 'em within 2½ games of Chicago.

The White Sox cut their slump at two, coming from behind for a 5-4 edge over Washington as reliver Gerry Staley won his sixth straight.

New York belted Kansas City 9-7, and Detroit beat Boston 2-0 on Paul Foytack's four-hit ter and Al Kaline's two-run homer.

With Score winless in seven starts since July 3 and passed over in pitching rotation, Harshman made his second start with Cleveland and came through with his second complete game. Now 4-9, he didn't walk a man and struck out five.

The White Sox scored two unearned runs in the first, then had to come from behind after the Senators chased Dick Donovan with two in the sixth for a 3-2 edge. Johnny Romano's two-run pinch single got back the lead for Staley (7-3) in the sixth.

Foytack (12-10) walked but one and struck out eight, allowing one hit after the second inning for his first victory over Boston in five decisions. Kaline's 22nd home run came in the third against Bill Monbouquette (4-5). It followed a walk to Harvey Kuenn.

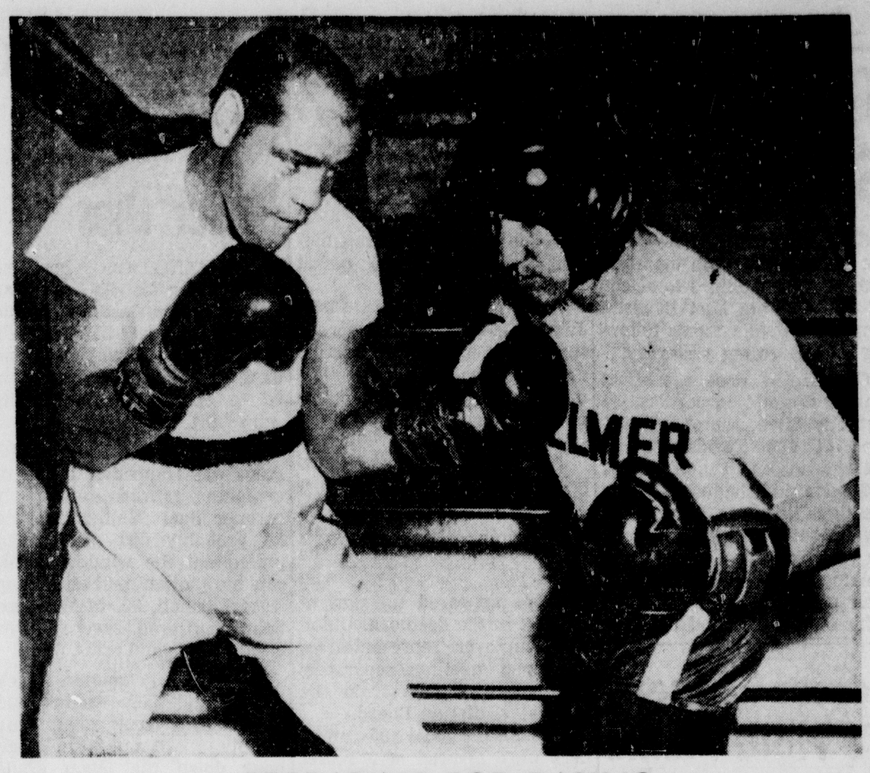

The Yankees blew 2-0 and 5-3 leads and finally needed Ryne Duren's save after the A's scored one in the ninth. With one out and the bases loaded, Duren struck out Joe DeMaestri and got Roger Maris on a foul.

Golfers In Tie

SPOKANE (AP)—Beverly Hanson and Betsy Rawls tied with 143s yesterday at the end of the first 36 holes in the Spokane Women's Open Golf Tournament.

Hicks Wins 16th

HOQUIAM, Wash. (AP)—Bobby Hicks of Seattle won his 16th straight bout yesterday, beating Zeke Lucero of Sacramento, Calif., on points. Hicks weighed 138½ and Lucero 137.

PREPARING FOR BASILIO

Gene Fullmer, right, and Bobo Olson, ex-middleweight champ work out in a private ring in San Francisco, as Fullmer trains for his NBA middleweight title bout in San Francisco, Aug. 28 with Carmen Basilio. Olson said he's gone 15-rounds with Fullmer, who is concentrating on fighting as a southpaw. Marv Jenson, Fullmer's manager said "We know that Basilio didn't look good in his matches against southpaw Chuck Davey, so Gene just might box left handed." (AP Wirephoto)

Giants Take Twin Bill From Phillies, Boost Lead To 2½

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants are 2½ games on top of the National League today, and they can thank their ability to murder the league's tail-enders for their lead.

They walloped last place Philadelphia twice by scores of 6-0 and 10-6 yesterday. The wins made the Giants 10-6 for the season against the Phils. Add this to a 13-3 mark over St. Louis and a 13-7 bulge against Cincinnati and you have the secret of the San Franciscans' success.

However, few would deny the Giants looked like potential pennant winners yesterday.

In the opener, the team pecked away at the aging but great Robin Roberts while smooth-as-silk Johnny Antonelli breezed to his seventeenth win. He has dropped but seven.

The Giants grabbed a run in the first and then made it 4-0 in the sixth. Jackie Brandt, Willie Mays and Willie McCovey ripped singles and Orlando Cepeda lofted a sacrifice fly. Mays and McCovey pulled a zany double steal as the Phils threw the ball around the infield in a fruitless atempt to nail either one of them. Daryl Spencer than ripped a double to score both men.

WHITEWASH

The Phils hit Antonelli hard in the later innings, but he managed to escape with his fourth shutout. Three of his whitewashes have been made against Philadelphia. The Phils collected eight hits and stranded 10 men.

San Francisco scored again in the seventh and Antonelli added some icing to the victory cake by whacking a solo homer in the ninth inning.

The second contest score was misleading. The Giants piled across seven runs in a riotous fourth inning to make the score 9-0 and then coasted to victory.

The big fourth saw doubles by Cepeda and Willie Kirkland and a triple by McCovey. The Phils joined the act with and error and wild pitch.

Mike McCormick started strong for the Giants, but wilted in the 90 plus degree heat. Stu Miller took over in the seventh and contributed a solid relief stint. McCormick is now 11-10 on the year with four victories over the Phils.

SEMPROCH LOSER

Ray Semproch, who departed in the fourth, absorbed his 10th loss.

Most of the heavy stick-ing came from where manager Bill Rigney least expected it. Kirkland, who was riding a horrendous 0-for-28 slump, Spencer and Ed Bressoud accounted for eight of the team's 12 hits.

The Phils' Wally Post hit the game's lone round-tripper. A crowd of 28,164 sat in on the twin bill.

The Giants planned to gamble Al Worthington (1-2) as this afternoon's starter, while the Phils went with Jim Owens (9-10).

San Francisco hoped its whammy on the loop's bottom rungers continued, for wins over cellar dwellers or top contenders all look alike in the standings.

Meanwhile, the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers, whose nine-inning melodramas have more suspense than a Hitchcock movie, turned to Roger Craig today in an attempt to win their second straight game from the Pittsburgh Pirates.

RALLY FAILS

The Dodgers came from behind to beat the Pirates, 6-5, last night, but had to withstand a Pittsburgh rally in the ninth inning that disappointed a Forbes Field crowd of 24,678. Los Angeles actually lost a half-game to the league-leading San Francisco Giants, however, since their ancient rivals clouted Philadelphia twice.

Craig, 6-4, hasn't won a game in almost a month and has been shuffling back and forth between the bullpen and dugout as manager Walt Alston played all his pitching cards on the team's toughest road trip of the year.

Bennie Daniels, 6-8, or George Witt, 0-7, was expected to pitch for Pittsburgh.

Three Dodger veterans —Gil Hodges, Duke Snider and Carl Furillo—all played prominent roles in the Dodger win as pinch-hitters. Charlie Neal, the team's toughest man in the clutch for the season overall, also got into the act with a fine fielding play and a key hit.

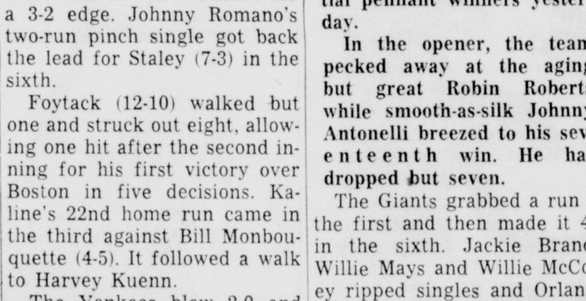

In other National League games yesterday, the Cincinnati Redlegs defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 2-1, and rain washed out the Braves-Cubs game with Chicago leading 1-0 in the third inning.

Flycasting Winner

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Jon Tarantino of San Francisco won the skish fly accuracy event yesterday at the National Assn. of Angling & Casting Clubs' fishing tournament. He scored a perfect 100 points.

Jockey Wins Four

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Bill Harmatz won with his first four mounts yesterday to run his victory string to six over two days.

Teamster Strike Spread Authorized

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Striking Teamsters Union members extended picket lines to affected firms in big East Bay and Peninsula points today following a court ruling yesterday.

(The ruling does not effect Marin County, according to Anthony Silva, secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters and Warehousemen Union, Local 624. Silva said the local already has signed contracts. Local 624 covers both Marin and Sonoma counties.)

Attorneys for Local 85 won their point that branch offices of San Francisco and San Mateo County struck companies also were subject to picket lines.

However, Superior Court Judge Orla St. Clair decreed that the existing injunction continued the ban against picketing by roving bands from the union or obstruction of any street or highway.

The injunction, issued shortly after the strike began Aug. 7, limits pickets to three to a line at warehouses or terminals of companies involved in the strike.

There appeared no sign of a break in the deadlock. Union and employer representatives continued meetings separately with commissioners from the Federal Mediation Board.

Teamsters Local 85 members were assured of a secret ballot on any new contract proposal. The strike followed a standing vote rejection of local leaders' recommendations for acceptance of a three-year contract providing increases of $10 weekly each year. More than 500 members petitioned for the secret ballot in the future.

The membership demanded a package daily increase of $2.75. Some small independents accepted that.

The scale ranged from $19.80 to $21.80 under the unexpired contracts with the Draymen's Assn. and the California Trucking Assn.

Senior Citizens To Hold Picnic

A picnic of Marin Senior Citizens will be held Monday at Samuel P. Taylor State Park.

John Clahan, executive director, announces that all of "senior" status will be welcome whether or not formally affiliated with the group.

Cars will leave the Senior Center at 1825 Fourth street, San Rafael, at 10 a.m. Those needing transport should arrange in advance by phoning the Center.

Those attending should take their own lunches. The picnickers will eat at noon and enjoy cards and other games later.

Runaway Truck Hits 7 Cars; Driver Dies

LOS BANOS (AP)—A gasoline truck-trailer lost its brakes on Pacheco Pass last night and struck seven cars before crashing into an embankment and exploding. Its driver was burned to death and five others were hurt.

Charles Threet, 23, of Dol Palos was trapped in a ball of exploding gasoline and deputy coroner Joel Whitehurst said he probably was dead when pulled out the window of his cab by another trucker, Reuel Robert Schell, 30, of Whittier. Schell suffered severe burns on his hands and arms.

Highway Patrolmen Jack Kistler and Jack Rollins said the runaway truck was moving at between 70 and 80 miles an hour down the steep grade when it hit the first car.

All the struck cars, traveling in the same direction as the trucks, were bounced to the side of the road by the runaway truck.

After it struck the embankment, its trailer broke loose, bounced in the air and landed atop a car. William H. Alsip, 35, of nearby Hollister, a passenger in the car, suffered serious head and neck injuries.

Others, who suffered less serious injuries, were Woodrow Jones, 47, his brother, Luther, 30, both of Palo Alto, and Miller Hawkins of Menlo Park.

Kistler said Threet apparently lost his brakes immediately after starting down the grade and jockeyed the rig through two miles of traffic before crashing.

Because of the crash, there was a traffic jam at the pass involving an estimated 2,000 cars.

MEETING TOMORROW

Attempt To Stave Off Shipyard Strike Slated

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Representatives of employers and the International Association of Machinists will meet with federal mediators tomorrow in an effort to avoid a strike that would tie up West Coast shipyards if it comes off as scheduled Monday.

Arthur Viat, regional director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said he had asked both parties to continue the meeting on a day-to-day basis so long as there was a chance of agreement. He also asked that work at the shipyards not be interrupted while the talks were being held.

In a dispute involving Machinists Local 1304 in the East Bay, picket-line violence erupted for the third day in a row yesterday at a fibreboard paper products plant in Emeryville. A car containing five non-striking machinists was overturned, and windshields in several other cars were broken when seven carloads of non-strikers atempted to pass through picket lines.

Marvelous Marin is composed of a variety of things. Marinites, through their desire for the different, the comfortable and the beautiful have set the pattern for a distinctive mode of home living activity. The homes, tastefully decorated and furnished, landscaped to provide outdoor living according to each individual desire gives us our variety. Dozens of separate elements such as interior decorating, kitchen and utility room planning, lighting, flooring, painting, papering, plumbing, wiring, roofing, tiling, masonry, landscaping, heating, cement work, insulation, weatherstripping combine to make a home.

All of them, the different homes, future developments, the old and the new will be in the Sept. 11 Homes Edition at the beginning of National Home Week. As in past years we will have an edition that will be outstanding. We think the reason for this is because we have tried to portray, in the most graphic and vivid way possible, in news and advertising, the exciting variety of home living made possible here by the ability and imagination of our builders.

We have had so many requests for extra copies of previous issues that we are offering early reservations so that you will have them to send to friends and relatives. Use the coupon blank below to order your extra copies.

Public Probes Of Teacher Loyalty Criticized By State Federation

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California State Federation of Teachers joined the American Civil Liberties Union today in opposing public questioning of California school teachers' loyalty records, even by local school boards.

The ACLU has announced it will seek an injunction in the U.S. Court of Appeals here Monday to block the House Un-American Activities Committee from turning over names of subpenaed teachers to local school boards for questioning under state security laws.

Chairman Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) of the House Committee yesterday announced cancellation of loyalty hearings involving more than 70 teachers, which had been twice scheduled and postponed.

He said the committee, at suggestion of Arthur F. Corey, secretary of the California Teachers Assn., would turn over the names to local school boards for questioning.

A San Francisco organization called SAFE—San Franciscans for Academic Freedom in Education—noted in a statement that the committee's action "puts responsibility for the protection of academic freedom directly upon local school boards and supervisors. It is now up to them to see that no rights are abridged."

The California State Federation of Teachers, which frequently disagrees with the larger, more conservative California Teachers Assn., declared that further proceedings before public boards of education "can only intimidate and agitate our teaching staffs, weaken the morale in our schools and cause general confusion and unrest in school districts."

Still another group called the Northern California Teacher Defense Committee, jumped into the controversy through a statement from its chairman, Mrs. Helen Miller, saying in part:

"The wide public outrage against the proposed hearings has forced the Walter Committee to withdraw from a field of investigation wherein Congress, under the Constitution, has no jurisdiction to inquire.

"Nor should the Committee take any further steps to interfere in the California School system. Revealing unsubstantiated information to local school boards would be a further violation of Congressional power."

College Site Tour Date To Be Fixed

The Freitas ranch west of Novato will be inspected soon by a state Public Works Board from Sacramento which is to hunt for North Bay college sites.

Selection of a date for the tour and public hearing in some public building centrally located in Marin, Napa, Sonoma or Solano counties is to be made at a Monday afternoon board meeting in Sacramento.

Going To Willamette

Anthony Good, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Good of Kentfield and a June graduate of San Rafael Military Academy, has been accepted for admission to Willamette University of Salem, Ore., this fall.

JAIL FLOOD BLAMED ON BATH TOWEL

A bath towel caught inside the Marin County Jail's main drain caused yesterday's flood inside the cells.

Plumbers pulled the towel out of the drain and the situation was back to normal yesterday afternoon.

Undersheriff Eugene Meyer said the towel may have been flushed down by one of the inmates. Jailers said the location of the towel indicates it probably came from the drunk tank, and that it may have been lodged in the drain for several days.

Rapid Transit Boosted In Oakland Talk

OAKLAND (AP)—Rapid transit is the answer to the automobile's "seemingly insatiable demands for moving and parking space," a transit leader said here.

Continued efforts to solve transportation problems by building more freeways and parking areas "would relegate people to a position of secondary importance to the automobile," said General Manager John M. Peirce of the San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

He told the Oakland Rotary Club that the Bay Area is "barely scraping by today" in its efforts to "contend with 1,300,000 motor vehicles."

Clair W. MacLeod, president of the district, told the club that "the creeping effects of congestion paralysis" are already here and "will continue to mount until it becomes chaotic, unless remedial steps are taken."

WEDDING

United Nations. In the gallery were five newspaper correspondents.

Pastor Gautestad told the young couple: "Your example shows that real love, which is from God, breaks down all the social and conventional barriers amongst us. To build a good home is perhaps the greatest of all arts."

Turning to Steven, 23, the pastor said: "You, Steven Rockefeller, take with you into your new home a good inheritance."

'Career Library' Established For Tam High Schools

A special "career library" containing material on a wide variety of vocations has been organized for the high schools of the Tamalpais Union High School District as a summer project of Miss Mardys Whiteman of the Redwood High faculty.

Miss Whiteman said the material is especially needed at Drake and Redwood highs because of their newness compared to Tamalpais High. She has collected semi-permanent publications on careers for use by interested students, counselors and teachers doing vocational units as part of their courses of study.

A prime aim of the project, she said, was to set up the new library service with a maximum of value at a minimum cost. She said she was able to organize a basic library and compile information that will enable librarians and counselors to supplement the collections through the year.

San Quentin Arts Show Draws Well

An estimated 500 visitors today bought more than $600 worth of arts and crafts created by inmates during the first hour and a half of the annual exhibit at San Quentin Prison.

The show, featuring more than 500 works of art and 150 crafts, will continue tomorrow from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Judging of the crafts last night resulted in a first place in leather craft and best of show award to Harold Sevffert for his leather purse.

Second and third awards in leather went to Ronald Maurer for a purse and a wallet.

Other first prize winners were Mike Meehan, metal tooling; Carlos Salazar, jewelry, (he also took second and third place in the same division); William Walls, woodcraft, and Roy Groomes, weaving.

Prices on the exhibits range from 25 cents to $1,200. The inmates set the prices on their own works. Last year's show brought the convicts more than $900 in sales.

Businessmen Depart On Soviet Trip

Two Marin County residents were among a group of 39 Northern California businessmen who flew from San Francisco for Washington, D.C., this morning on the first leg of a trip centering on a tour of the Soviet Union.

John C. Lucas of 201A Valley street, Sausalito, and William T. Brantman of 2480 Mar East road, Tiburon, expressed hopes that the visit will be thorough and constructive because it is being made on invitation of Soviet Deputy Premiers Anastas Mikoyan and Frol Kozlov, both of whom were apparently satisfied San Francisco tourists recently.

Cyril Magnin, San Francisco merchant who entertained Kozlov, heads the party which will stop in New York and Brussels before reaching Moscow next Tuesday.

Beverage Machine Robbed Of Coins

A burglar stole coins from a soft drink machine at Cox TV Sales and Service across from Hamilton Air Force Base but bungled another job next door.

Sheriff's deputies discovered the burglaries yesterday morning. The coin box had been removed from the machine at the television firm. Pry marks were found on another machine in front of the Associated Service Station next door, but the thief was apparently unfamiliar with this type of machine and failed to get the coins.

Singer To Fly To Lake Tahoe

Gordon McRae, singing stage and movie star, was booked to fly to Lake Tahoe by Tahoe Air Lines from Richardson Bay this afternoon to start an engagement with Harrah's at Stateline.

He was one of a party of six including his wife, Sheila, who appears with him in his entertainment program, children and a maid. The McRaes recently completed a similar engagement at Las Vegas.

Homestead District Will Hold Hearings

Public hearings will be held on two issues before the Homestead Sanitary District at its next regular meeting at 8 p.m. Sept. 28 in the Homestead firehouse, it was decided last night.

One discussion will center around a proposal by directors to increase connection fees from $125 to a figure not yet decided upon, according to Secretary Gus Wolf. The other will relate to a proposed garbage ordinance.

Duerr On Vacation

Sausalito City Manager Donald A. Duerr left today on his annual vacation which will see him return to his desk Sept. 10. In his absence Fire Chief Mathew J. (Matts) Perry will be acting city manager.

Holiday To End

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower plans to end his work-rest holiday here tomorrow.

OBITUARIES

Rites Slated For Victim Of Drowning

Funeral services for Donna Mischele Cline, 13, who drowned Thursday in a Monterey motel swimming pool, will be held at 2 p.m. Monday at the First Presbyterian Church, San Anselmo. Burial will follow at Mt. Tamalpais Cemetery.

Miss Cline was the daughter of Mrs. Margerie Irene Cline, San Anselmo. Besides her mother she is survived by her father Donald Schmoker, New York City, and her grandparents Mrs. Della M. Cline and Vasie H. Cline.

Friends may call at the Chapel of the Hills Mortuary, San Anselmo, until noon Monday.

MANAGER

members to do away with the city manager plan of government without a vote of the people.

"Tracy is to be congratulated for acquiring the services of such an able executive. I think he's done a terrific job here with the handicap he's had. And, brother, he's had handicaps."

Brewer and Mrs. Booth recently differed on a garbage disposal rate increase granted the San Anselmo franchise holder last February, and there was criticism of Brewer's proposal to raise the city tax rate to purchase right of way for widening Sir Francis Drake boulevard.

Brewer called the garbage rate increase "a mistake," while Mrs. Booth defended the increase, saying "The San Anselmo Garbage Disposal Co. has given the city the best service it has ever enjoyed."

And in reply to Little's suggestion that the garbage disposal company open its books to the council, she said, "I resent, in a democracy, any legislative body going into a business and demanding a statement of profit and loss of that business."

Mayor Smith said: "I'm happy to hear that Mr. Brewer has accepted another position. My disagreement has not been with Mr. Brewer, but with the city manager plan, which concentrates the power in the hands of one man when it belongs with the elective representatives.

"I also believe that Mr. Brewer will fit in very well with any city that wants that form of government. I wish him luck in his new job."

Councilman William Franchini, in refusing to comment on the development, said "I don't want to be a part of any more of your paper (newspaper) talk."

Councilman Jordan L. Martinelli Jr., who seconded Councilman Booth's motion to repeal the city manager ordinance, was not available for comment.

Brewer, at 41, takes a record of some 10 years urban management experience to Tracy. His career began as assistant San Leandro city manager—a job he held for two years; he was Buena Park, Orange County, city manager for five years; served in an interim capacity, as Downey city manager for five months while the city manager form of government was being set up there, and will have completed 22½ months as San Anselmo city manager.

He is a graduate of University of Michigan with a degree in architecture. He holds a master's degree in city planning from Grand Brook Academy in Michigan and a master's degree in public administration from the University of Pennsylvania.

DEATHS

CLINE—Donna Mischele, Miss, Monterey, Aug. 20, 1959, dearly beloved daughter of Mrs. Margerie Irene Cline, loving granddaughter of Mrs. Della M. Cline and Vasie H. Cline; a native of Arizona, aged 13 years; a member of the Order of Rainbow for Girls, Tamalpais Assembly 191.

Friends are invited to attend the funeral Monday, Aug. 24, at 2 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church, 72 Kensington road, San Anselmo; interment will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery; friends may call at the Chapel of the Hills Mortuary, San Anselmo, until 12 o'clock Monday. (8/22)

KAUL — Aug. 29, 1959, Clara Kaul, beloved mother of George W. Kaul, loved sister of Mrs. Elsie Schreiber, Mrs. Alice Mansion and Mrs. Hattie Jerertinger, all of Milwaukee, Wis.; a native of Milwaukee, Wis., aged 78.

Private services will be held Monday at Chapel of the Chimes, Oakland; friends may call at Halsted and Co., 1123 Sutter street, San Francisco, Calif.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Aug. 22, the 234th day of the year, with 131 more days in 1959.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning star is Mercury.

The evening stars are Mars, Jupiter, Saturn and Venus.

On this date in history:

In 1762 the first American woman newspaper editor, Ann Franklin, assumed her duties on the Newport Mercury, at Newport, R.I.

In 1851, the United States yacht "America" outraced the British "Aurora" off Cowes, England, winning a silver trophy. The trophy—now known as "The America's Cup"—has been successfully defended by various United States yachts for more than a century.

In 1862, composer Claude Debussy was born.

In 1903, Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, proposed a world series of baseball. A few months later the Pirates lost the first World Series to the Boston Red Sox.

In 1911, the "Mona Lisa" was stolen from the Louvre Museum in Paris by an Italian who took the painting for patriotic reasons.

A thought for today: The English author Geoffrey Chaucer said, "Let no man think that he's exceptional, for fortune will desert us, one and all."

Special Legislative Session Possibility

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown, on a fishing trip in the mountains of Northern California, was on the minds today of blue-chip state Senate committee.

Members wondered out loud if the governor planned to call a special legislative session in 1960 to consider implementation of his own one and three-quarter billion dollar water bond issue.

They were also curious if the governor would tell the lawmakers they could study during the session a provision for acreage limitation similar to federal law to prevent "unjust enrichment."

The Senate Water Study Committee ended a two-day meeting yesterday with the questions still unanswered. Chairman Stephen P. Teale (D-West Point) hinted that he had some inside word.

"There is a possibility that Governor Brown will call a special legislative session on water concurrently with next year's budget session," Teale said.

But he went no further. He did not even guess whether the governor would include unjust enrichment under his call.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Soviets Fire At Turks

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—Soviet border guards machine-gunned a group of Turks near the Soviet frontier Thursday afternoon, killing one and seriously injuring one or two others, Turkish press reports said today.

Labor Probe Rapped

WASHINGTON (AP)—The current investigation of the United Auto Workers is a "political witchhunt" to kick off re-election campaigns of two Republican senators, the union charged yesterday.

The charges came from Jack Conway, assistant to UAW President Walter Reuther, and Joseph L. Rauh Jr., the UAW's Washington lawyer. They pointed fingers at Sens. Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota and Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska.

New York Blackouts

NEW YORK (AP)—About 21,000 New Yorkers sweltered through two more power blackouts yesterday and early today. But neither was as serious as Manhattan's mass power failure last Monday, which lasted 12 hours and affected half a million people.

Matador Gored Again

BILBAO, Spain (UPI)—Luis Miguel Dominguin, one of the world's greatest bullfighters, faced the loss of up to a quarter of a million dollars today as the result of his second goring in 22 days.

Dominguin's physician, Dr. Manuel Tamames, said that while the wound Dominguin received yesterday was "not too serious" it would keep him out of the ring for 20 to 30 days. This could cost him a small fortune in fees.

Khrushchev On TV

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American public will get at least one good television view of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in action during his 12-day tour of the United States.

It was learned last night that Khrushchev will make a major address and engage in a no-holds-barred question and answer session with reporters at the National Press Club here Sept. 16.

The entire affair will be carried throughout the nation on television and radio by the major networks.

Gluckman Takes Off

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A San Francisco watchmaker took off from San Francisco International Airport at 7:17 a.m. today for a solo flight around the world in a single-engine plane.

The flier, 33-year-old Peter Gluckman, is attempting to establish a world record with the flight.

Racists Hold Rally

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (UPI)—An Arkansas Supreme Court justice told a segregationist rally last night to "do what needs to be done" to stop integration of the Dollarway School District here next week.

Justice Jim Johnson was a featured speaker at the rally which drew a smaller crowd than had been expected. Gov. Orval Faubus and Mississippi Congressman John Bell Williams had declined to appear.

Cleric's Arrest Delayed

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (UPI)—The government yesterday postponed the arrest of Archbishop Francois Poirier following a warning from the Vatican that such a step would mean automatic excommunication for the officials involved.

Atty. Gen. Max C. Duplessis announced after a hurried conference between Haitiian authorities and representatives of the Roman Catholic Church that the arrest warrant would be suspended pending negotiations with the apostolic nuncio here.

Skycatch Failure

INGLEWOOD (UPI)—The Air Force's second attempt in a week to recover a space capsule from orbit was written off as a failure today with all recovery efforts halted.

The 300-pound capsule was successfully ejected Thursday from the discoverer VI satellite.

The Air Force and Navy put in a fruitless day of searching for the capsule. All hope of recovery now is abandoned, the Air Force said yesterday.

Ike Healthy Man

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—"He's is quite a healthy man," said heart specialist Dr. Paul Dudley White of President Eisenhower yesterday.

Solons To Quake Area

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. (AP)—Seven members of Congress flew here today to view the destruction wrought by a series of earthquakes that rocked the northwest last Monday night and Tuesday.

Pageant To Remain?

LONG BEACH (AP)—A sponsor and the promoters of the Miss Universe beauty peageant may settle the dispute that threatens to take the contest out of Long Beach.

Chester Roth, president of the sponsoring swim suit company, yesterday called it a misunderstanding and said he hopes for settlement.

Oscar Meinhardt, executive producer of the pageant, said, "Certainly we'll listen to them."

Storm Hits Formosa

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Strong winds and heavy rain lashed southern Formosa today as typhoon Iris passed south of this island and roared toward the Red China mainland.

Beecham, 80, Elopes

LONDON (AP) — Sir Thomas Beecham, the petulant patriarch of the podium, wound up a satisfactory recording of Handel's "The Great Elopment." Then the 80-year-old British maestro and his 27-year-old secretary, Shirley Hudson, left the study together—and eloped.

DURANTE NOSE SNUBBED; IS HE MORTIFIED!

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C., apparently has slammed the door on comedian Jimmy Durante's outsized nose.

Durante said yesterday he had received word that the institute won't accept a plaster cast of his famed proboscis.

"I took 'em at their word. Everything was done in good faith. But now they don't want Durante's nose to get into the act," said the comedian. "My nose ain't never been snubbed before. It's mortifyin'."

Larkspur Still Waits Harbor Project Word

Larkspur's City Manager Ronald E. Piper reported disappointment today in his hope that Sacramento officials would notify him promptly as to whether Larkspur is (so to speak) in the same boat with Mill Valley on the troubled waters of small boat harbor plans.

"The word just hasn't come through," said Piper who reiterated that it will be quite impossible to have final engineering plans for a Larkspur harbor ready by Sept. 16, the deadline sprung this week on Mill Valley's City Council which like Larkspur, had understood the date was Nov. 16.

Larkspur wants a $300,000 state loan to build a small boat harbor and had understood its application would be considered if it presented plans 10 days before the next meeting of the small craft harbors commission in November.

Two Finish Basic

Two Marin youths recently were graduated from the basic training center at Ft. Ord. They are Jeffrey Veregge, 17, whose mother, Mrs. Bette Lee Norris, lives at 172 Leland way, Mill Valley, and Ronald E. Moreci, 19, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Salvator Mareci, live at 31 Buena Vista avenue, San Anselmo.

REPORT SLATED

Luncheon Ends Statewide Workshop Of Educators

Group conferences of the fifth annual statewide workshop in teaching education, in progress for the past week at Dominican College, San Rafael, were completed this morning.

The 100 California educators in attendance joined this noon for a luncheon discussion of a workshop report prepared under the direction of Dr. John Robinson of the San Francisco State College's educational division.

This report will be published and distributed to the Council on Teacher Education, one of six organizations which sponsored the workshop, at its Oct. 28-30 conference to be held at Yosemite.

"Everyone is most pleased with this week's workshop," said Mrs. Edwin L. Blackmore of Belvedere, member of the statewide planning committee. "It is the biggest and best conference this group has ever held."

The four previous workshops were at Stanford, the University of California at Santa Barbara, and the following year at Berkeley, and at Whittier College.

San Rafael High Newcomers Test Set For Friday

Placement tests for all students new to the San Rafael High School District will be given in the high school cafeteria next Friday from 8:45 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Results of the tests will be used by counselors in determining the student's course of study for the coming year.

San Rafael Sewer Line Breaks Cause City Vs. Developer Dispute

A break in a sewer line in one of Marin's finest residential areas has fanned a controversy between the City of San Rafael and a developer.

Evidence of the break lies in a grey, slimey pool at a recently graded homesite next door to 17 Twin Oaks avenue in Fairhills.

What caused the break and how to solve the problem it poses, are questions that bring forth two conflicting opinions.

The city, according to Norris Rawles, public works director, through a mistake made more than 10 years ago, did not accept easements for sewer lines in the area.

Rawles says that probably they were not offered.

Normally, Rawles explained, subdivision maps are filed with the city when a new group of homes is planned, and, if the maps and plans meet specifications, the city accepts streets and any sewer easements that run through the properties.

In level areas sewer fallout lines simply connect with the main trunk lines that run along the streets, and these large lines are maintained by the San Rafael Sanitation District.

In hilly areas, such as Fairhills, sewer lines from homes must run downhill, and, if there is no street connection at the foot of the property, another line must be constructed to connect, in turn, with the main line. This puts the lines in rear-lot easements.

In the Fairhills area it is the sewerage from houses that front on Fairhills avenue that drains down to the faulty lines. The lines lie somewhere between the uphill Fairhills drive homes and the downhill Twin Oaks avenue homes.

Rawles says that in the case of the Fairhills development, it was accepted by the city under record of survey proceedings and not under the present city subdivision ordinance. The streets, he said, were deeded to and accepted by the city—the sewer easements were not.

During the past year as various breaks have occurred in Fairhills sewer lines, the city, according to Rawles, has attempted to find a solution.

He explained that maintenance of sewer lines in these easements become part of the city's responsibility and not that of the sanitation district.

The city, he said, has offered to take over the easements if the Marvelous Marin Realty Co., Fairhills developer, would present a map with legal descriptions of where the easements are located. He said the city, if it gets easements, will accept the sewer lines, as is.

"Meanwhile, I have no authority to service the lines," he said. "I don't know where they are—at least not until there's a break."

Raw sewage apparently had been sinking into the earth, but spilled out into the open when the Twin Oaks drive lot was graded. Rawles said a building permit for the lot is being held up until the sewer situation is cleaned up.

F. Lloyd Grandi, of the realty firm, said the city attorney asked him to present deeds and metes and bounds descriptions, and that he complied. These were rejected, he said. Also Grandi said title insurance was offered by him.

He said he plans to consult with City Atty. A. E. Bagshaw, now on vacation, for a solution to the problem. Rawles said materials presented by Grandi were not adequate.

Grandi also said that breaks in the sewer lines were caused by heavy pieces of equipment that were brought up the hill from Twin Oaks avenue to Fairhills drive during construction.

He indicated that at least one of the property owners doesn't feel responsible for the break, but blames it on the heavy equipment operator who has long since left the county.

Rawles said he has made repairs to some of the lines, including the present break this week, as a matter of public safety.

Also, his crews pumped sewerage from the property to a city line and spread lime on the offensive area. He said he found evidence the breaks were caused by spreading tree roots.

He repeated, however, that the city cannot do anything permanent until it is granted the easements.

Public To See Display Home

A display home replete with luxuries and work-saving gadgets was opened today by the Greenbrae Co. at 370 N. Almenar drive, Greenbrae. It will be on display daily from 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Built on a sloping lot in a newly opened upland valley by the Schultz Building Co., the house was furnished by Casa Marin of San Rafael. Two of the three bedrooms face on a large patio and the dining and living rooms have views of Corte Madera Creek and low rolling hills of the Ross Valley.

Moral Rearmament Center Report Set

A report on the Moral Rearmament training center at Mackinac Island, Mich., will be given by news commentator Sid Fuller in a special broadcast over KTIM tomorrow at 1:30 p.m.

Following the report will be a discussion of MRA activities in Marin County by Col. and Mrs. Marvin Houghton of San Anselmo; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Libby of Strawberry, and John Upshur Smith, San Anselmo, chief officer of the liaison staff of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization.

Auto Quipsters Have Themselves A Field Day With Imported Cars

Advent of the small foreign car to American living and transportation has given rise to a whole new supply of jokes, wisecracks and cartoons. Automobile quipsters haven't had it so good since the early days of Henry's first tin lizzie.

Here are a few picked up along the gasoline alleys and byways:

TWO MEN were discussing the merits of their sport cars.

"My car," said one, "I can run steadily at 115 miles per hour and get 30 miles to the gallon. It costs me about one cent a mile to operate it."

"That's nothing," said the other. "I just drove 200 miles over a mountain road in 3½ hours and only used 5 gallons. That's even less than one cent a mile."

Another man listening to the conversation edged up to the two and asked if he could cut in.

"You a sport car owner, too?" asked one.

"Oh, no," said the interloper affably. "I was just interested in how little sense you gentlemen use in driving and thought I should leave my card with you before you run out of gas. I'm a mortician."

HERE'S a short, short story from the classified pages: .....

FOR SALE—One 1958 M. G.
Is big enough for two, but not for three.
Has had good care — used weekends and to spark in.
Will sacrifice — no longer room to park in.
Bought house with extra space for three or four
And seldom get around much anymore.

A VARIATION on an old-timer:

An owner of one of the foreign models with the engine where the trunk should be went on his vacation and decided to pack in by horseback on a fishing trip. He left his car in a small mountain garage that seldom saw anything more than outdated Chevvies and Fords, and doubled in blacksmithing.

"I just had the car overhauled," he told the character who acted as mechanic, "but the motor seems to be missing. Find out what's wrong and fix it up. I'll be back in a few days."

On his return he checked in his horse and called at the garage.

"Find the trouble?" he asked.

"Sure did, mister," drawled the repairman. "It's no wonder it didn't run right. That last feller who worked on it sure messed it up. Know what? When he took out the engine he put it in the back instead of the front. It was a lot of work, but I fixed it. I took off the body and turned it around. You won't have no more trouble now."

IN MY OWN CASE, whenever I fill up the Volkswagen with gas there is always some wiseacre around to stick his head under the front hood which houses nothing more than the fuel tank, spare tire, jack, three cubic feet of cargo space and an extra fan belt that looks like an oversize rubber band.

"Mean to say this thing uses gas? I thought you pedaled it from the inside or used hot air," is a typical comment, accompanied by a loud guffaw.

"I do," I answer sourly. "And I'm indebted to you, mister, for a fresh supply. You've given me enough to last until I meet someone else like you."

The big lug.

MARIN POETS' CORNER

RIVER OF FATE

Deep shivering river of silver gleam
How cold, and cruel, to some, you seem.
Rushing, wearing each path anew
Destroying, disregarding all in the wake of you.

Gliding, sliding, rippling on
Frozen, and cold, in the break of dawn.
Some fear, and hate your lovely grace.
Others love, and die in your embrace.

Haughty, and proud, you ripple on,
A beauty of nature, and haunting song.
In your depths so cool, and clear
I'll find peace, and escape from fear.

'The North Always Fascinated Me'

San Rafael's Louise A. Boyd Is World-Renowned Arctic Explorer

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Why would an attractive woman of high social position and much culture leave a luxurious home to spend months at a time exploring Arctic wastes, endangering her life and enduring great hardships? I've often asked myself this question as I followed the spectacular career of Louise Arner Boyd, only woman polar explorer in the United States.

I found the answer when I interviewed her recently at her beautiful home, "Maple Lawn" in San Rafael. Miss Boyd said:

"Everything from the North fascinated me. My brothers and I had never seen snow. My mother, who came from Rochester, N.Y. and father, who was born in Valley Forge, Pa., often talked of it. Everytime a ship came from Alaska to San Francisco we wanted to see it.

"My strong subjects at school were history and geography. I am a born geographer." I could visualize a small golden-haired girl studying the brightly colored maps. "I read every book I could find about the North." But Miss Boyd was over 30 before she began the career which made her world famous and brought her medals and honors which had never before been bestowed upon a woman.

Her blue eyes glowed as she recalled: "It was in 1924. I went on a small boat along the coast of Norway to North Cape and to Spitzbergen, and the ship nosed into the pack ice. I remember I turned to the captain and said: 'Some day I want to be way in there looking out instead of looking in."

It was just two years after that that she not only looking out from the pack ice, but she was leading an expedition, trudging over the ice, photographing and compiling scientific data, starting a series of expeditions of incalculable value.

I had my appointment with Miss Boyd at 8:30 a.m. She rises early, has breakfast, swims (her pool is only heated in the winter), and attends to her business affairs and social engagements. A tall, graceful woman with a delightful smile, she greeted me in the library. We had frequently talked about her family, her home and her early life but I asked her to give me the details again.

It was just after the Civil War that Mrs. Thomas Arner, whose doctor-husband had died in the war, and her small daughter, Louise Cook Arner, came from Rochester to California to make her home with her father, Ira Cook, and his son, Seth, in San Rafael. A portion of their vast estate is "Maple Lawn" and part of Miss Louise Boyd's house was built in the 1850s. Additions were made to it from time to time, and it is now an imposing Victorian-type structure. Both Ira Cook and his son were mining men, and they amassed a fortune.

Ira Cook took great pride in his home and extensive gardens, and he was public spirited, so much so that he allowed his neighbors to make a "short cut" through the front of his estate. Later the "short cut" became a street, as he gave the property for a thoroughfare to the city of San Rafael. It is a portion of Mission avenue now. The pioneer retained a small portion on the south side of the street so that no barns or other unsightly structures would be built there.

Little Louise Arner was taught by a governess, and when she was older she was sent to a "finishing school" in the East, and gained the "accomplishments" required of a young lady. She was a good linguist and a splendid pianist and was one of the early members of the San Francisco Symphony. In April 1883 she was married in San Francisco to John Franklin Boyd, who was a number of years older than she. He had been associated in mining at Bodie, Calif. with Ira Cook and his two sons, Seth and Daniel. He gave up mining after his marriage and he and his wife lived in the San Rafael home. They had three children, Seth Cook Boyd, born in 1884, John Franklin Boyd Jr., who arrived two years later, and Louise Arner Boyd, subject of this article, who was born in September of 1887. She pointed upward as she said: "We were all born in this house."

MISS LOUISE ARNER BOYD, famous Arctic explorer, is pictured in the library of her beautiful home, "Maple Lawn" in San Rafael, looking at some of the honor awards and certificates of appreciation bestowed on her for her great contributions to science. Miss Boyd not only led all of her expeditions, but she also did the photography and photographic mapping. (Independent-Journal photos)

The children had a happy time. Miss Boyd said: "I was a tom-boy. I rode horseback with my brothers. Often we would pack our saddlebags and ride all day through the hills. We spent about seven months of the year at our 6,000-acre ranch at Danville—Oakwood Park Stock Farm—now known as the Cook ranch. It had a fresh water lake and we swam there. Of course, the three of us were tutored. The remainder of the year was in San Rafael."

I asked about the help and the horses.

"I remember we had an Irish cook, a Scotch governess and a Chinese laundryman. Of course we had a maid, a coachman and stable boys. We had a pair of carriage horses, a single horse for the buggy, and three saddle horses." Miss Boyd told how terrified the horses were of the train, and of the runaways which occurred when the freight trains "came puffing down the grade."

She was thrown out, when the team of horses she was driving ran away, but escaped injury. "The horses were frightened of the automobiles, too. We didn't have the first automobile in San Rafael. In fact, I think it was about 1912 when we bought the first car."

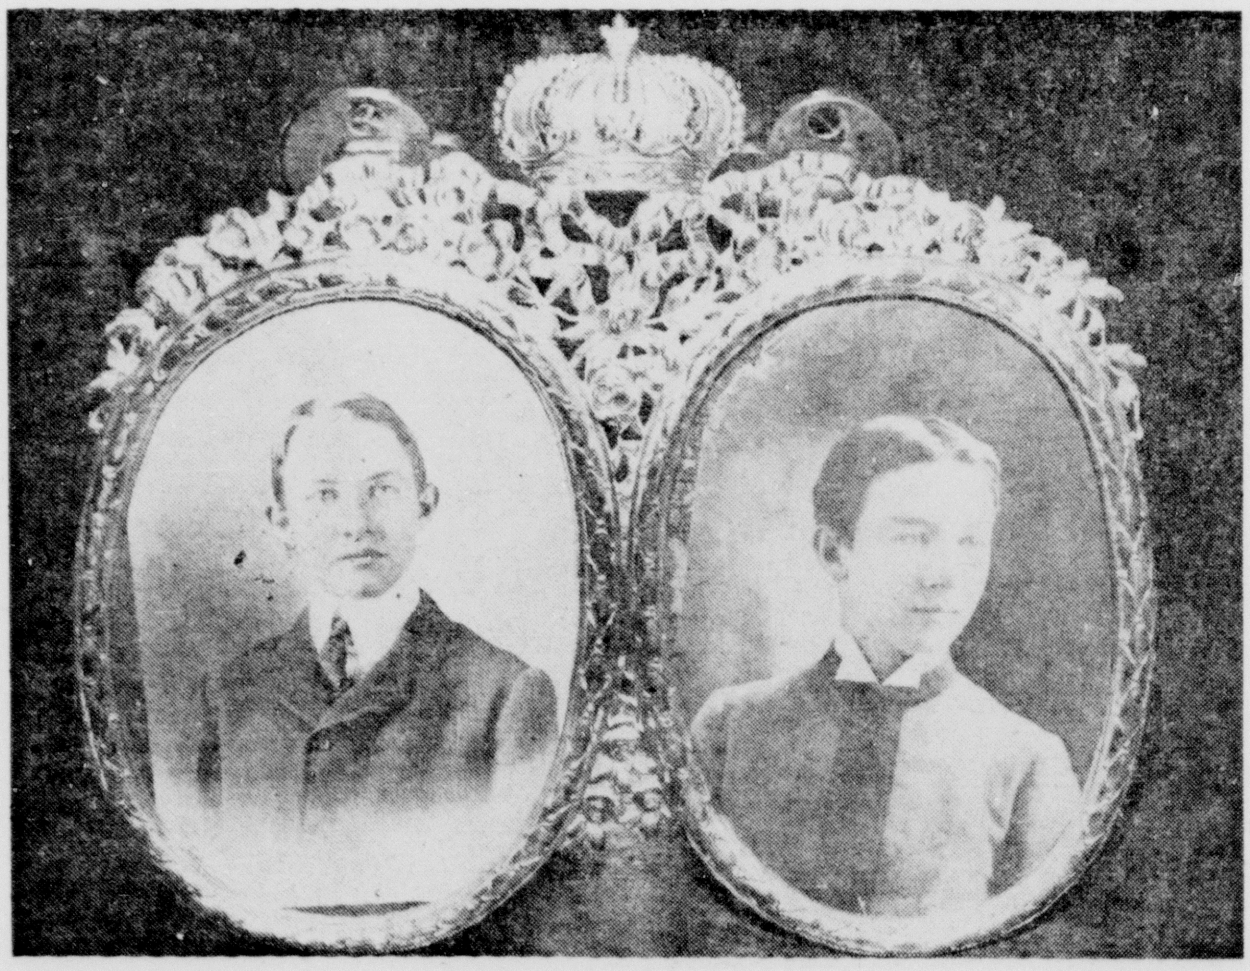

After Miss Boyd and her brothers passed the governess stage they went to Miss Stewart's School in San Rafael. Later the boys attended Mt. Tamalpais Military Academy. Miss Boyd went to Miss Murison's School in San Francisco.

"And we had such good times at home. Mother and I both played the piano, so did my brother Seth, and Jack played both the banjo and the guitar." Happy times ended when Seth suffered a fatal heart attack in August, 1901, and Jack (John), who had suffered from rheumatic fever for some time, died in April of the following year. As a memorial to their sons, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd gave three-quarters of their San Rafael estate — about 40 acres—to the City of San Rafael as a park in 1905.

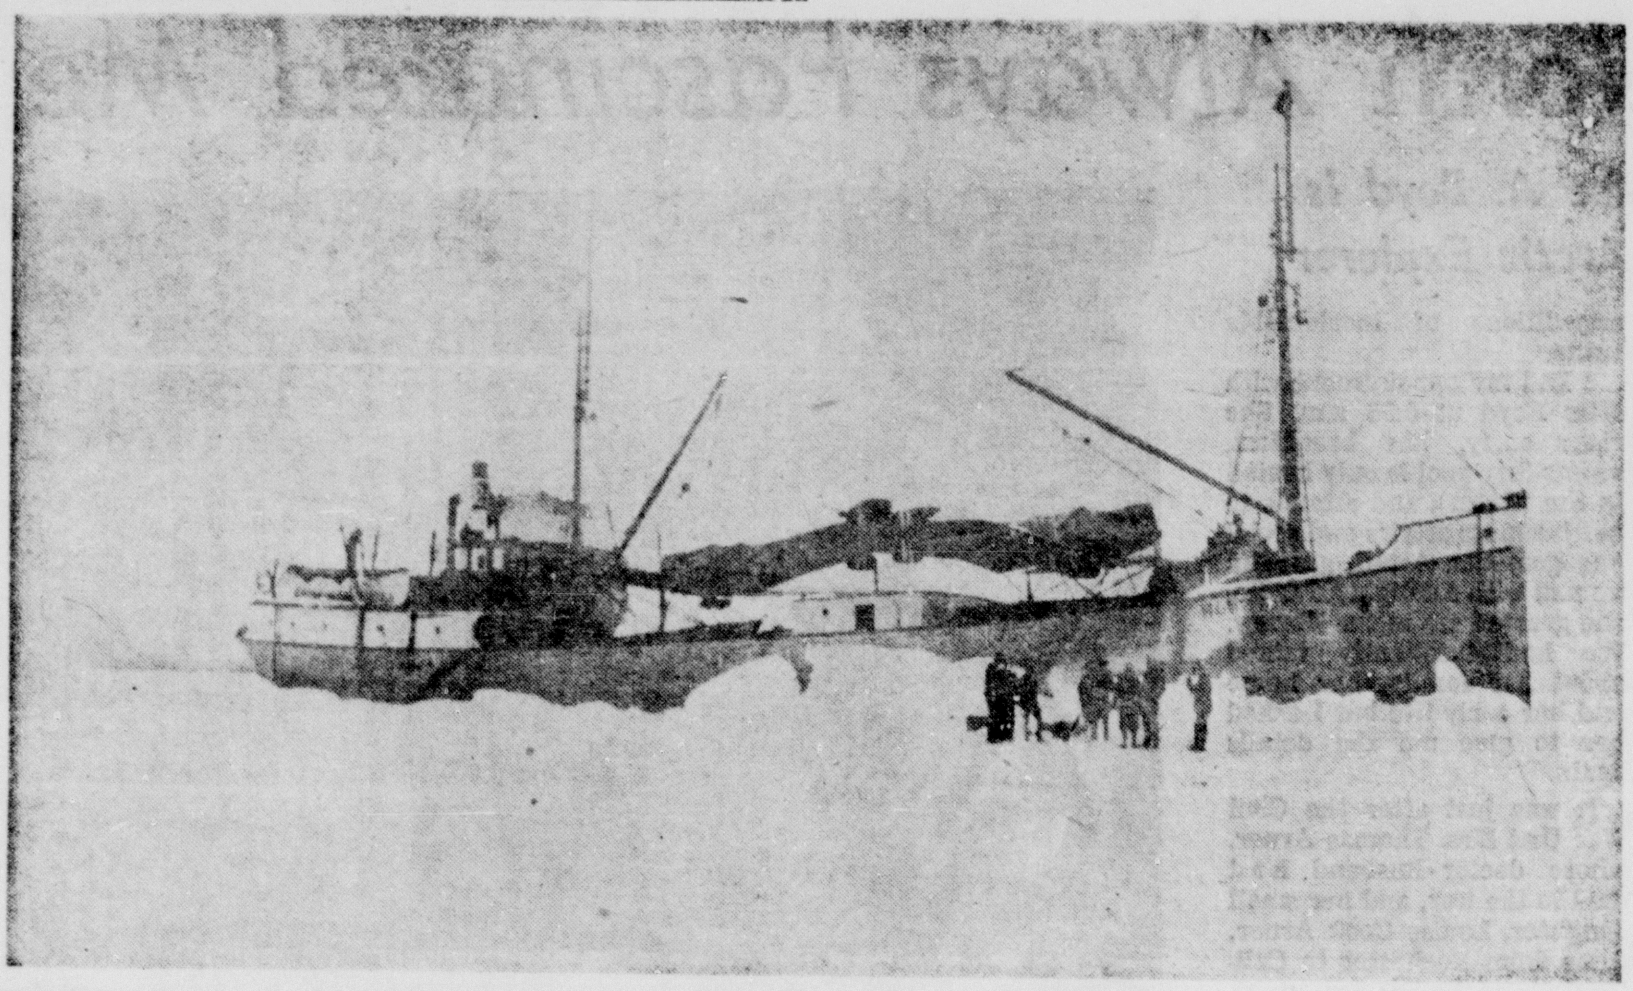

The following year Miss Boyd and her parents went abroad to spend a year. But two days after they arrived in Europe, they received word of the terrible earthquake and fire in San Francisco and hurried home. It was not until 1910 that Mr. and Mrs. Boyd and their daughter returned to Europe. They traveled extensively for a year, not only on the Continent but in Egypt, where they spent the winter, and in the Holy Land. "Father's health began to fail him and he never went abroad again," Miss Boyd said.

In 1918 the terrible flu epidemic which had swept over the country broke out in San Rafael. The sick and dying overcrowded the hospitals, and the old Hotel Rafael was taken over by the health de-

THE "HOBBY" which Miss Boyd chartered for her first two expeditions. On the first, in 1926, she went as far north as Franz Josef land. There are many islands in the archipelago and the ice is very heavy. In 1928 Miss Boyd offered her services to the Norwegian government in the search for Roald Amundsen. partment as a hospital. Miss Boyd, a Red Cross aide nursed there all during the epidemic. Regardless of her own health, she worked long hours because there never were enough nurses to take care of all the stricken.

San Rafael did not have any ambulance to transport the flu victims so Miss Boyd and her coachman "manned" the family station wagon and worked day and night bringing the patients to the hospital.

In October of 1919, Miss Boyd's mother died, and the following May her father passed away. Miss Boyd made several trips to Europe before she began her series of expeditions, and in 1925 her name was on the society pages of newspapers of two continents when she was presented at the court of St. James.

Miss Boyd began planning her first expedition into the Arctic. "I wrote to Francis DeGisbert. He wasn't an ice pilot, but an expert on the polar regions I wanted to see and study. I persuaded him to take me. I told him I wanted him to teach me everything he could about the polar regions. He gave me my best training."

It took several months of preparations before the sealer, "Hobby," which Miss Boyd had chartered for her first expedition in 1926 got underway. Miss Boyd recalls the thrill as the ship entered the ice pack, grinding its way through the floes. Carefully the captain and ice pilot, Johannessen, "up in the barrel" navigated through the ice.

Miss Boyd photographed many types of ice and land formations. She did all the photography on this and her subsequent expeditions. It was on this trip she laid the foundations for the ice photographic library which became very extensive. "I am systematic and catalogued my pictures and kept the records. We went as far north as Franz Josef Land. It didn't belong to anybody then. Now it belongs to Russia. There are many islands in the archipelago and the ice is very heavy," she told me.

I asked her if she had been afraid on this or her other expeditions. She answered quickly: "I've never been frightened. I'm a good traveler and I adapt myself easily to conditions."

The first expedition was so satisfactory that Miss Boyd, on return to her San Rafael home, immediately began preparations for another. In 1928 she again chartered the "Hobby" and made plans to go to east of Greenland, where there is the largest ramifications of fjords known in the world. On reaching Norway Miss Boyd's plans were changed. The search for Roald Amundsen, Norwegian flyer, was started. Amundsen, discoverer of the South Pole, had left in a French airplane with five crewmen on June 18, to search for Nobile, piloting the airship "Italia," which had crashed on the ice north of Spitzbergen. Amundsen and his plane vanished and Norway, with Sweden, Russia, Italy and France were organizing a search. Miss Boyd offered to take the "Hobby" at her expense on the search. The Norwegian government gladly accepted.

Three famous Norwegian aviators, Riiser-Larsen, Lutzow-Holm and Finn Lambrechts joined the personnel of the "Hobby" and two very small Norwegian sea planes were taken aboard. Miss Boyd was in full charge of the expedition which covered 10,000 miles of the Arctic and consumed four months.

In appreciation of Miss Boyd's great services, Norway presented her with the Order of St. Olaf, First Class. The presentation was made in the Palace by King Haakon. She was the first foreign woman to have received that honor. The French government made her a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, and the French Navy, through the Minister of Marine, gave her a miniature of the medal, set with diamonds, with the inscription: "Homage, Reconnaissance de La Marine Francaise a Miss Boyd 1928."

For her expedition in 1931, Miss Boyd chartered a larger ship, the "Veslekari" and went to the east coast of Greenland, this time making a particular study of the fjords. She discovered a large glacier not seen before, and made the first penetration of Ice Fjord, which is far inland, by ship. On her expedition in 1933, she went under the auspices of the American Geographical Society with the particular purpose of studying glacial marginal features in the King Oscar and Franz Josef fjords, the largest fjord region known in the world. Her ship again was the "Veslekari" and it served this and her later expeditions well.

This was the first expedition on which Miss Boyd used the sonic soundings. She had become and expert photographer and surveyor and many

THE S.S. VESLEKARI, a Norwegian sealer, larger than the "Hobby," was chartered by Miss Boyd for her 1931 expedition and those in 1933, 1937 and 1938. On the 1937 expedition unusually fine ice conditions permitted the Veslekari" to land at the northern point of Ile de France. Cont. from preceding page maps have been drawn from her carefully planned photographs. For her study of the Ice Fjords region, Miss Boyd camped inland on the ice for almost a month, mapping and photographing. She says of this simply: "It was a very full program of work." Her work was so thorough that Denmark named that part of Greenland "Miss Boyd Land."

Busy as Miss Boyd has been, she has written two books on Greenland. The first book, published in 1935, "The Fjords Region of East Greenland" by Louise A. Boyd, American Geographical Society special publication No. 18 (copyrighted), is a scholarly presentation of her explorations up to that time, plentifully illustrated with her photographs.

For two summers in succession, 1937 and 1938, Miss Boyd made scientific expeditions into Northeast Greenland.

Miss Boyd, having been trained by Miss Alice Eastwood, famous California botanist, how to collect flora properly, gathered an extensive collection of flowers in the Arctic on all her expeditions.

On the 1937 expedition unusually fine ice conditions permitted the "Veslekari" to land at the northern point of Ile de France. Miss Bold had gone farther north in that region than any other American and attained the second highest latitude ever reached by a vessel in these waters. The scientific staff included a hydrographer, a surveyor, a geologist and a radio operator who carried on research in short wave transmission.

Then in 1941, the work which Miss Boyd had been carrying on for years so carefully "paid off." That summer World War II was raging in Europe and the United States was about to be engulfed in it. Miss Boyd was called into the service of the United States government and told to organize and lead another expedition into the Arctic. For five months she was on the expedition which included the west coast of Greenland and the northeastern coast of Canada. Miss Boyd, the only woman aboard the ship, was again both leader and photographer.

On return Miss Boyd was called to Washington, D.C. by the War Department, and she was one of the top consultants on Greenland and other Arctic regions of the Atlantic during the early years of the war.

Because of the great secrecy shrouding Miss Boyd's activities during the war it was not until 1948 that the "Coast of Northeast Greenland" by Louise A. Boyd, American Geographical Society, special publication No. 30)copyrighted) appeared. It was filled with scientific information and splendid pictures taken by Miss Boyd, and the foreward was written by Edward H. Smith, rear admiral U.S. Cosat Guard.

Here is quoted what he wrote after he mentioned the first book: "Now appears a companion volume based upon additional exploration and study especially in the field of hydrography, which takes us 250 miles farther north to to the Ile de France. The motives which withheld from publication the material of Miss Boyd's 1937 and 1938 expeditions naturally suggested its value to our country. Information regarding North East Greenland prior to our entering the war was extremely scanty, and in preparing for a mission there during the summer of 1940 I was advised to consult Miss Boyd. The opportunity quite happily arose while the old cutter Northland was being hurriedly recommissioned at Oakland, Calif., prior to proceeding via the east coast of the United States to Greenland.

"Miss Boyd and her staff were exceedingly cooperative and helpful in supplying me with volumnious photographs including splendid panoramic views of important headlands and in identifying topographic features . . . Even this isolated corner of the globe was not free of World War II activities.

"North East Greenland, Jan Mayen and Spitsbergen (Svalbard) are magic lands of ice and grandeur to which those who seek adventure will voyage again and again, attracted by the Arctic's alluring wonders. When travelers there can include significant contributions to science, then adventure becomes a notable achievement. Particularly valuable in this respect are the series of expeditions successfully carried out by Miss Louise A. Boyd, who deserves our admiration and congratulations."

But Miss Boyd is not a person who relaxes or "rests on"

HERE THE ZEPHYR Class goes to it with a medium breeze to boost them along. The bow and stern of these 20-foot craft comes to a point letting the boats glide easily through the water. Being light hulls and lightly ballasted, they have a small sail area, but the boats are fast nevertheless. Polka-dot sail boat in foreground is the well-known Bree-Z Baby. Owned and sailed by a woman, it had a pink hull . . . naturally. The Z on the sails identifies the Zephyr Class. Sausalito is the back drop. (Redwood Empire Assn. photo)

Sailracing's Happy Hazards

All Ages Take To Starting Line In Sport That Has Its Surprises

When the August sun sparkles on Marin waters you can be sure that somewhere a small sailboat is being groomed for the weekend's race. It will be scrubbed and sleeked for trial against a fleet of sisterships in a contest notable for the seriousness of its do-or-die skippers.

No one knows what will happen from one moment to the next and tangled lines, collisions, leaks, dunkings and dismastings are not unknown hazards to the small boat skipper. But these hardies find these happy hazards —it's fun, they say, and a real test of skill.

JUST WHAT IT is about small boat racing that is so exciting to its devoted crews is not so apparent to the uninitiated lubber on the shore. Anyone who has watched a fleet maneuvering along Marin shores in the throes of a race grasps the beauty of the scene. But what is happening?

THE OBJECT, as in most races, sounds simple — to make sure that your craft gets from here to there around a prescribed race course before anyone else's. But how does it work?

First the owner scrubs the bottom of the boat so that it will scoot through the water without drag from scum or rough surfaces of caulking. Then he checks the rigging so that the tension on all sides of the mast is right. (You determine what "right" is after a few race seasons.) He oils all the blocks so the lines don't jam at a crucial moment. Then he pulls out all the extra cushions, paddles and other accumulations inside to lighten the load.

THEN COMES the day of the race and he bends on the sails to the spars pulling them as tight as possible around the edges so that there won't be sag when the wind fills them.

If you are an experienced hand at smallboat racing you soon learn to see that all the lines are untangled and free for quick use. A sailor knows that when a sailboat gets the notion to flip over, often only quick release of lines can save himself and the crew from being dunked. Swift small squalls are common hazards on waters around Marin hills on windy days, and they serve to test the skill of smallboat skippers time and again.

WHEN EVERYBODY is aboard it is time to shove off the pier and head for the starting line. But that has its problems too. It means that all the fleet must sail back and forth behind the starting line, jockeying for position so as to glide across the imaginary line just as the starting gun sounds. In a smallboat race where no handicaps are given the first boat across may gain a definite advantage and can be a tough bird to catch.

But crossing the line a second too soon means sailing back and crossing again, usually in heavy "traffic."

The boats circle and weave back and forth through their ranks, first on starboard tack with the wind coming over the right side of the boat, and then on port. The crew members shift their weight to the opposite side at each turning.

Now right-of-way rules, stopwatch and quick-thinking come into play, for if one boat bumps another it may be disqualified from the race.

FROM THE SHORE spectators see only a colorful scene as the brightly painted hulls weave in and out among themselves, carefully controlled by skipper and crewmen. The knot of boats resembles a swarming hive moving in the water. But with the sound of the bell or gun the confusion seems to settle and the craft string out, suddenly all sailing for the same objective ahead.

Then the skipper becomes aware if his sails show the slightest ripple or wrinkle which tell him that they aren't doing all the work they could to move his boat as fast as possible. Quickly he corrects the trouble spot or he shouts a terse message to his crew to do it.

Everything quiets except for the wind whipping through the rigging and the water splashing up the bows as the boats cut through it. The crew shifts weight by moving in the boat. They lean in toward the center as the wind slackens off and then as the sails fill, out they move to the farthest edge of the deck, and when the Stars or Mercurys or Clippers are racing, they may climb out onto the upward side of the hull and cling there, water-soaked, for some distance of the race. This helps to keep the boat "on its feet" so that it can sail at a better balanced position.

OLD TIMERS in the sail racing world are the Star boats, an international class that has been racing for about 50 years. Here Hugh Rose and John Rumsey sail toward Corinthian Island in Belvedere Cove on a warm sunny day. Slim 22-foot hull hardly touches the water and the keel is streamlined and small. Stars carry a lot of sail and provide plenty of excitement when the winds kick up on San Francisco Bay.

There has been many an occasion when the wind is brisk that one of these brave and hardies has stepped down onto the keel as it has moved nearly out of the water when the boat has steeply heeled over.

USUALLY WHEN the first mark or buoy of the race course has been rounded the boat sets off in another direction, at another angle to the wind direction. This means that weight and sails are all readjusted. Some skippers, crew and boats work better sailing before the wind and others sailing "close-hauled" or as directly into the teeth of the wind as possible.

This may give one boat a better chance after falling behind on the first leg of the race.

Sometimes a jam-up occurs when rounding the mark because each boat tries to save time by cutting close around it and starting on to the next. When several boats converge in one area there is a danger of bumping and thus disqualification from the race. So here again the rules of right-of-way comes into play. So when a boat comes to the mark, maneuvering for an advantageous position giving it the right-of-way over several others may mean a "first" in the race.

SAN RAFAEL CANAL, too, has seen its share of small boat racing. This picture shows the fleet of Wood Pussy Class boats which raced the canal waters as long ago as 1947. This fleet, sailed by Marin Yacht Club members, boasted red, blue, yellow and green sails, and raced throughout the summer on Sundays. The fleet numbered 14 at one time and now most of these boats sail the Belvedere waters. Here they run for buoy in tight formation calling for knowledge of rightof-way rules. Houses now dot the hills.

Most of the class boats in Marin race for a full season, building up points from each race so that at the end of the year the winner can be determined by the boat with the most points. Points are given for where a boat places in each race, winning points for each boat it beats and for starting and finishing the race.

IN MARIN smallboat racing has captured the fancy of people young and old, and fleets can often be seen racing from Sausalito, Belvedere and Tiburon piers, in the Belvedere Lagoon and in San Rafael canal. Small boats also sail out of Inverness around the Tomales area and in Santa Venetia Creek waters.

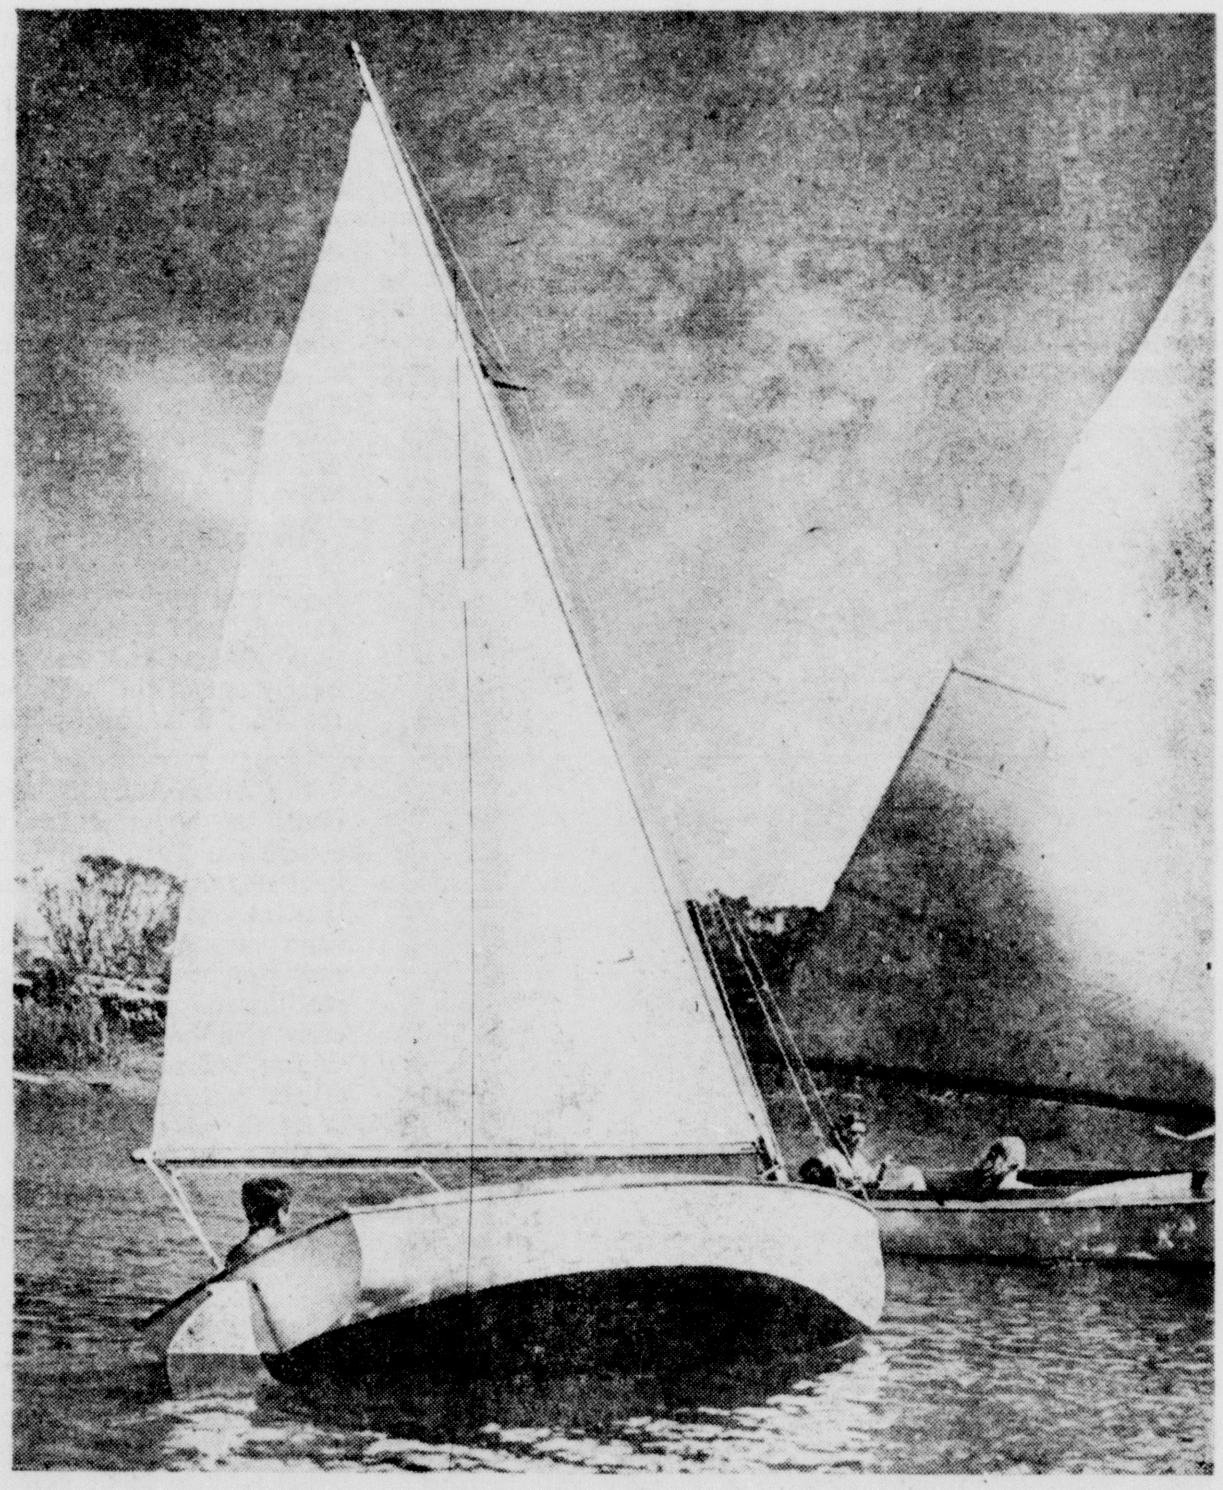

One of the most popular small boat classes is the 9-foot San Francisco Bay El Toro class, about the smallest of the race craft. Other popular classes sailed in Marin waters are Shamrocks, Sun Class, Wood Pussy Class, a few Snipes, the Sausalito-built Mercury Class, the Clipper Class, and the internationally famous racers, the Star Class, whose 22 feet hardly classifies it in the small-boat class.

Another fast racing-type hull is that design used by the Zephyr, the International 110 and the 210. These are sleek racing machines with pointed ends that move through the water with hardly a ripple.

And down in Richardson Bay the other day a group of the catamarans raced. They are twin-hulled craft which are stable and exceptionally fast running before the wind.

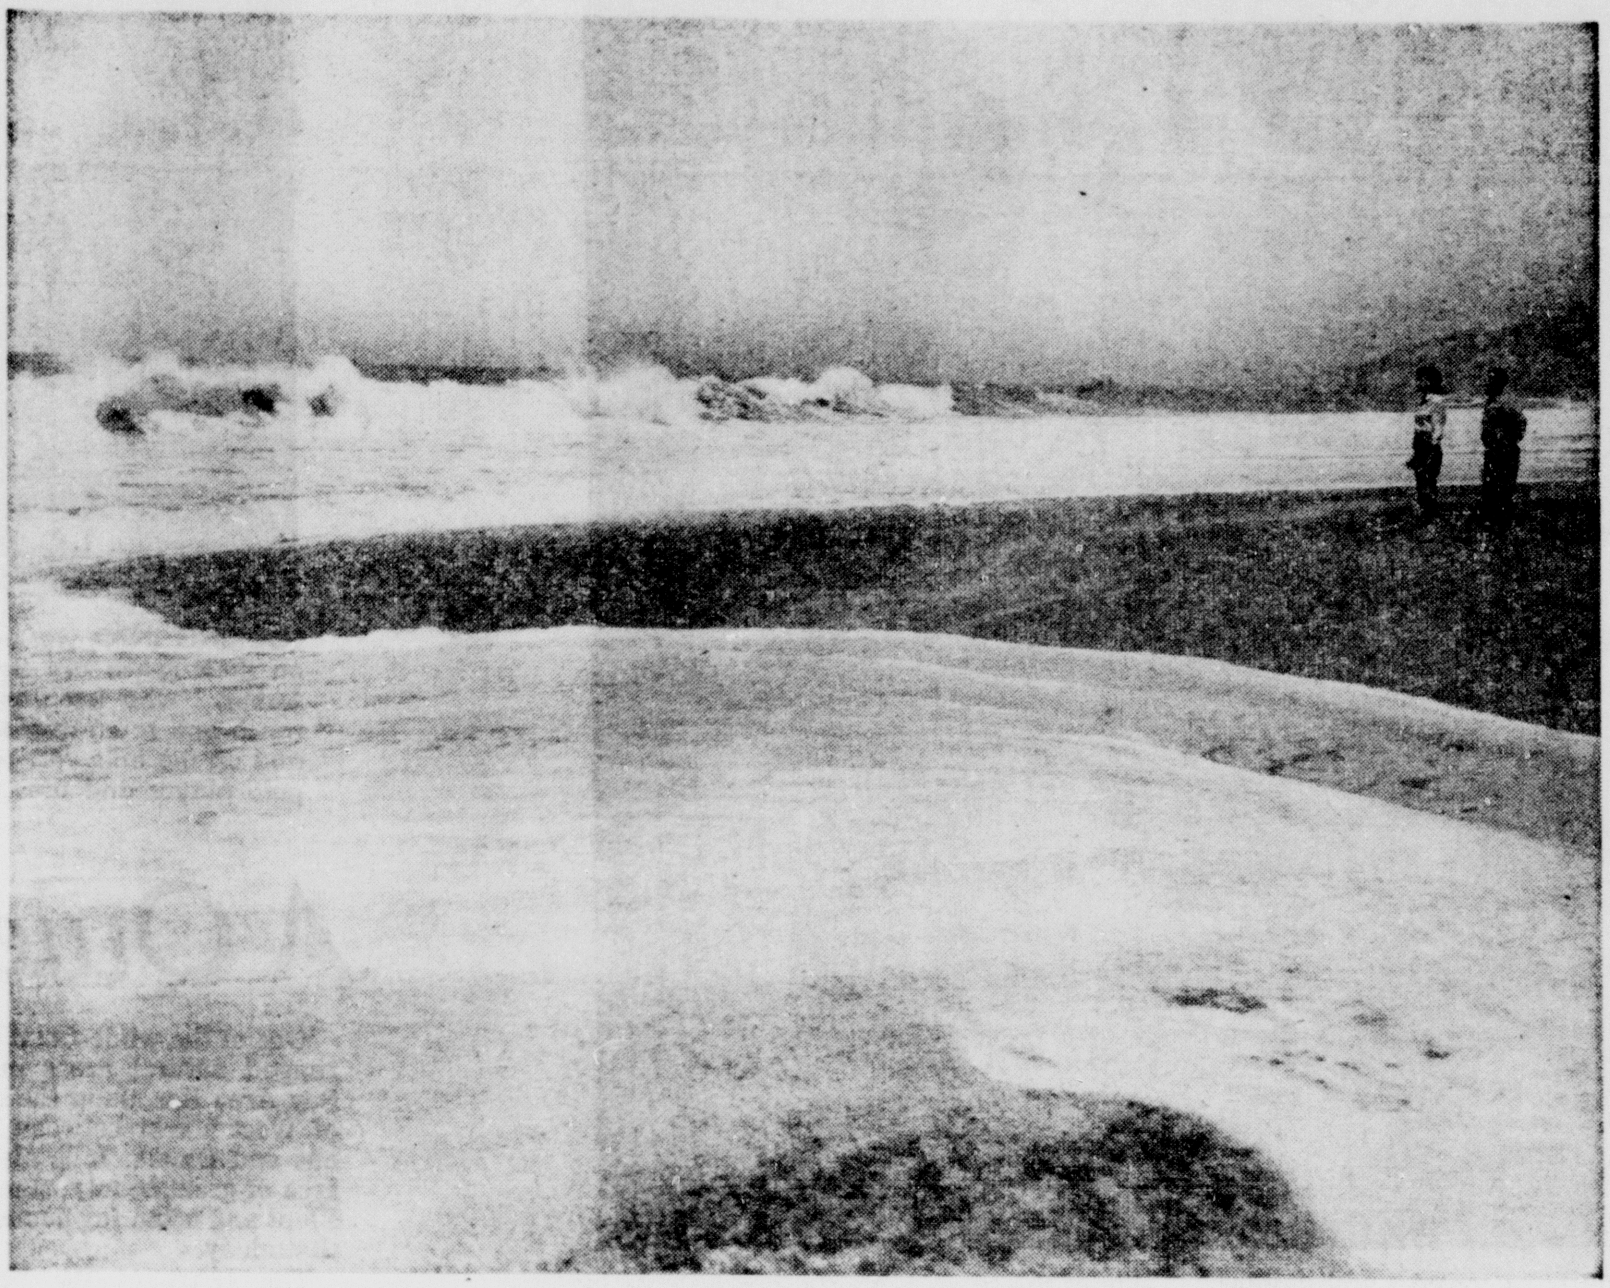

Other class boats are sailed here, of course, but these are among the principal racing craft in Marin, and you can often see them "at work" on a race weekend around Belvedere Cove, the Lagoon, off Sausalito and in San Rafael.

The sailors say theirs is a family sport, and the youngsters are as skillful sailors as their fathers and mothers.

HERE STARBOARD tack boat in foreground has right-of-way over the other, which must get out of the way in time or be disqualified from the race. This too is part of Wood Pussy fleet. Now the Marin Yacht Club carries on its racing program with El Toros built by its members.

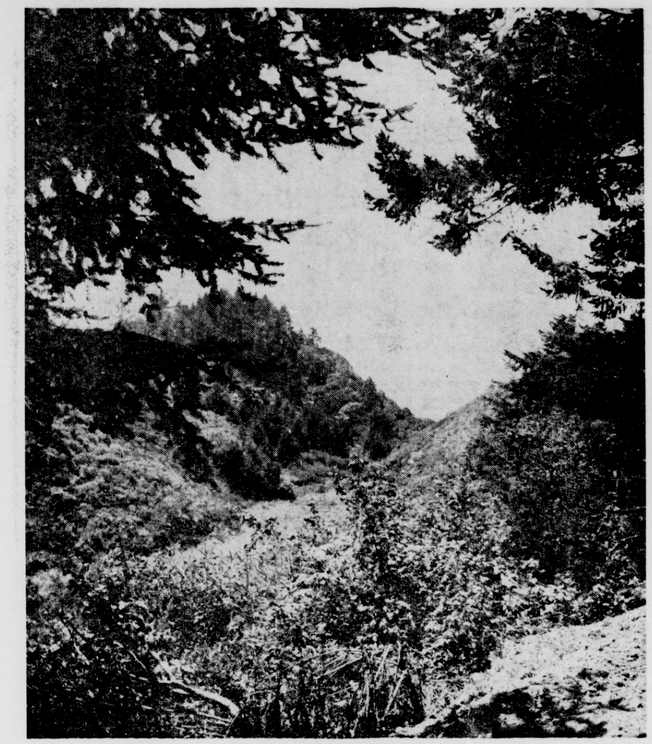

Scenic Ranch In West Marin

CRASHING, MILKY SURF slides over the sands of Wildcat Beach several hundred feet below the hills, part of the property of the Ranch of the Lakes, owned by W. S. Tevis of San Francisco. The three-mile beach forms an arc along the cliffs, extending northward along the Bear Valley Ranch. Up the coastline lies Drake's Bay. The beach is wide and sandy, and for the most part lies unmarred by footsteps. Harbor seals and a few sea lions lounge on the ranch beaches, and birds walk the sands undisturbed. A rough dirt road dips into a valley to the edge of the beach. The ocean's current is rather strong for swimming. The ranch is private and Mr. Tevis and his foreman, plus County Fire Department are the few who know the wild area.

DEEP, COLD AND SERENE, Bass Lake on the ranch is just one of six fresh water lakes that lie among the hills of the Tevis property. During the war, when the Army used the ranch for gun mounts, a crew attempted to find the bottom of the lake. They sounded to a depth of 400 feet, but never hit bottom, Mr. Tevis related. The lake is stocked with rainbow trout. "We ought to change the name to Rainbow Lake," the owner said, "the lake is full of the fish." (Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax)

DEEP GREEN FIR trees contrast with lighter Bay trees looking down valley to the ocean on Wildcat Ranch, a part of the Tevis property leased to the Bolema Club. The hills are heavily wooded on the eastern side of the ranch property, broken only by the dirt road that the fire department patrols and the Bolema Club members travel to reach the club near the bottom. The region lies west of Highway 1, about 10 miles north of Bolinas.

LOOKING INTO western end of Bass lake on their ranch are Sandra Tevis and her father, who keep their horses on the ranch and roam over the trails to the lakes and up the hills. Mr. Tevis is a well-known polo player and uses a former airstrip on a hilltop above the ocean as his practice field. They come to the ranch on weekends and Wednesdays to oversee the ranch and ride and fish. Cattle were nestled at left end of the lake in a cool hollow until Sandra and her father herded them out.

A Quiet, Rugged Terrain

One of the wildest and most rugged natural areas in the Bay Area lies along the coast of West Marin between Bolinas and Olema. It is also an area of great beauty, standing silent and often fog-bound until midday.

The heart of the beauty area lies within the boundaries of the over 4,000 acre Ranch of the Lakes, owned by W. L. Tevis. There the ocean breeze ruffled the waters of four large lakes, all fed by fresh water from springs in the hills. Fir trees grow tall on the hills, with a thick undergrowth of sage, blackberry, thistles and bay, thinning out to grass and tough thistles closer to the ocean.

Deer stroll along trails they have made and birds land on the lake waters.

Not much has been changed since the white man came to Marin. The sounds of the logging trucks and the sawmill over the hills toward Highway 1 do not penetrate here.

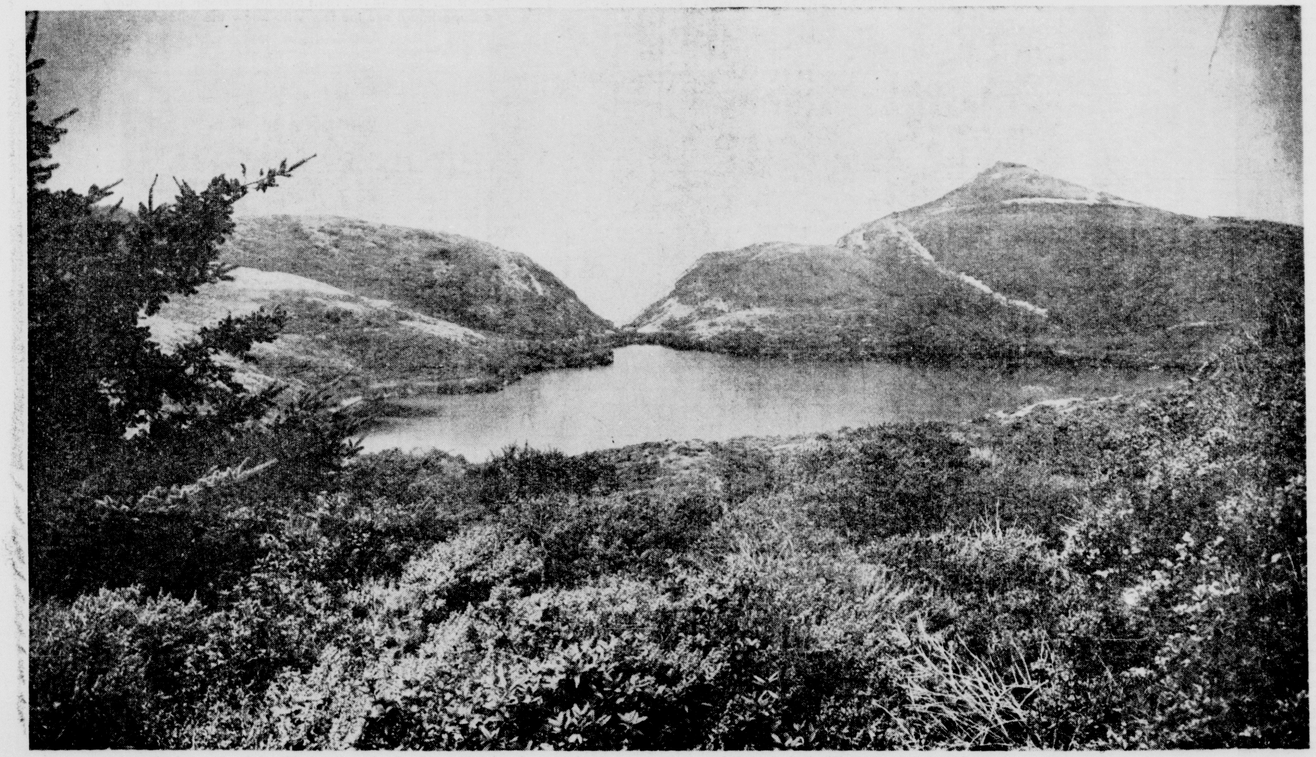

Trees gnarled by long years of ocean winds push up from rocky slopes and the Douglas firs grow thick and pointed. Wildflowers show through the grass during the summer months and purple blooms top an abundance of thistles. Poison oak, too, dots the hills.

This ranch, with its slightly

VIEW FROM DOUBLE POINT is breath-taking, as rocky headlands drop off hundreds of feet to sandy Wildcat Beach and rocks jutting from the ocean. Here Assistant County Fire Chief Louis Bloom looks out to sea. He periodically makes a check of the ranch area as part of the department's responsibility. He grew up near Olema and finds his knowledge of the terrain helpful in fire fighting. The county keeps the roads passable so that its equipment can move in when fire breaks out.

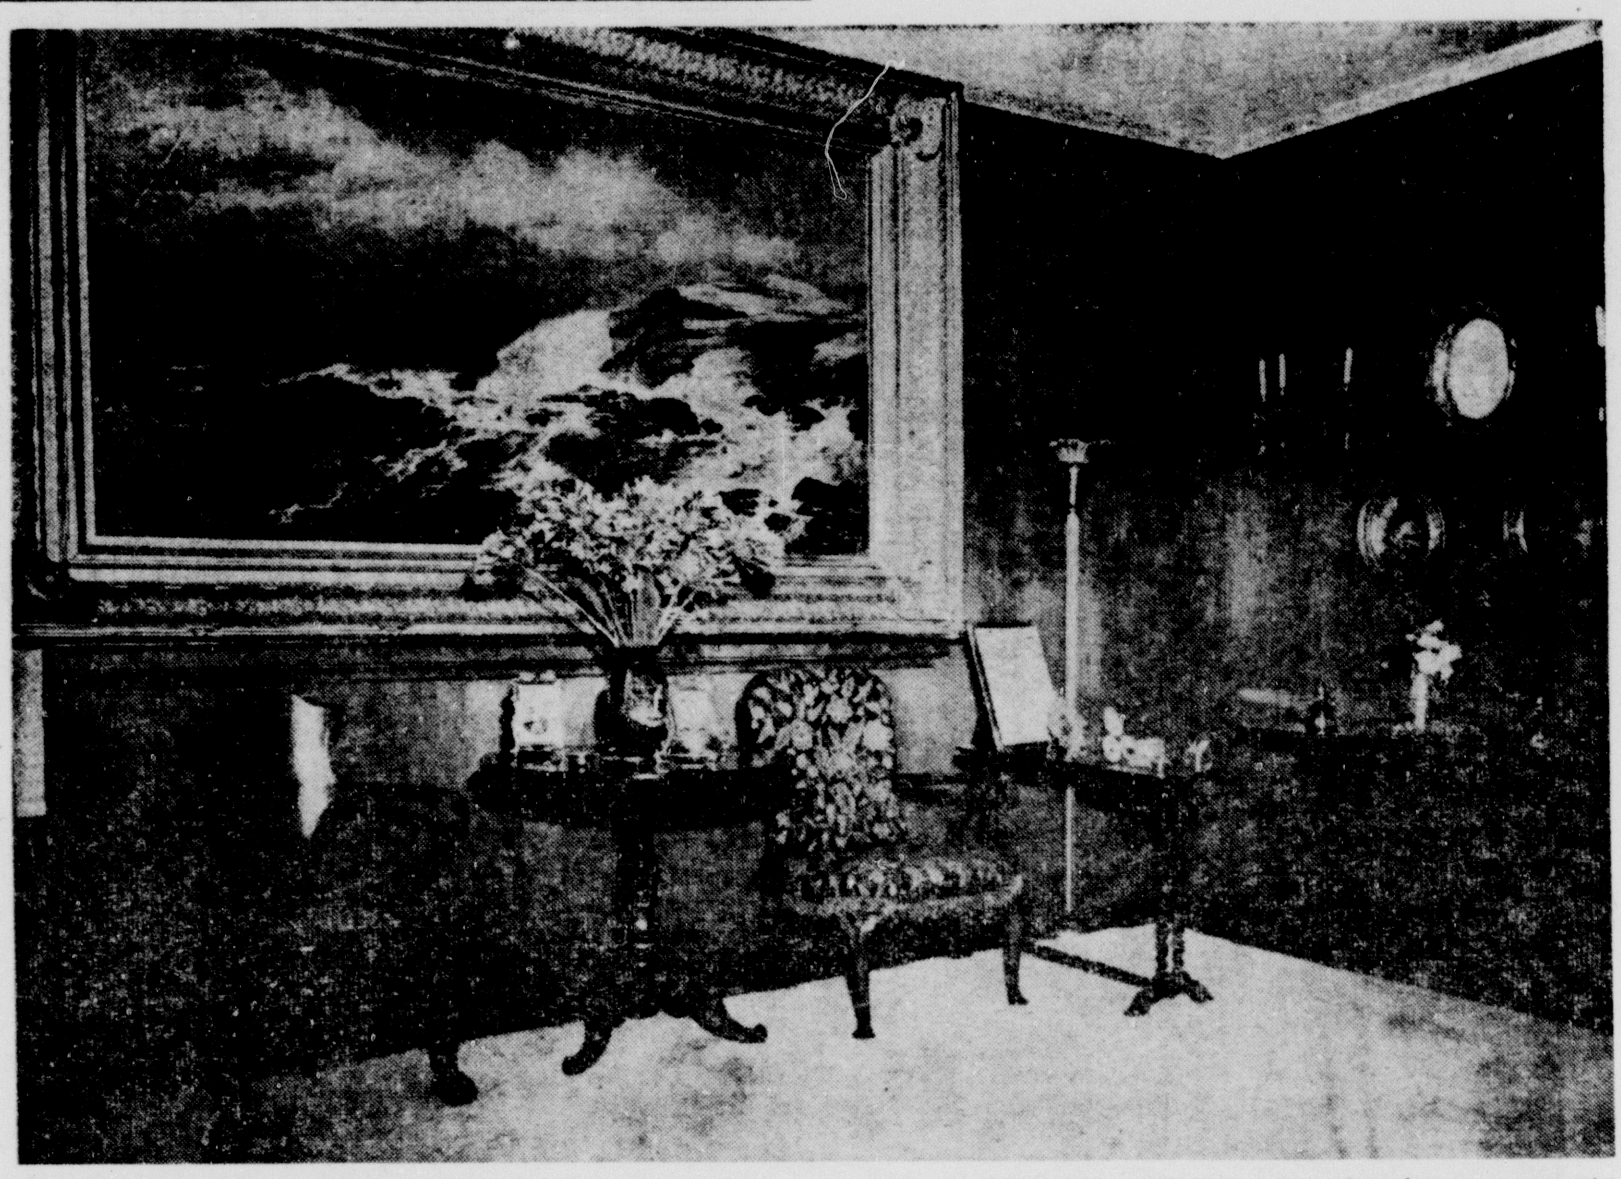

FEW MARINITES have ever seen Pelican Lake, one of the most unusual and beautiful spots in Marin, or in any county for that matter. It lies nestled in hills directly above the Pacific Ocean, which shows in V-shaped dip of hills. Barely visible at the right end of the lake are white birds for which the lake was named. It lies between Bass Lake to the south and Wildcat Lake to the north. Hilltop at right is honeycombed with cave-like installations made by Army during World War II. Deer, pheasant, ducks, seals, sage, blackberry, alder, raccoons, quail and pelicans are common sights to the few who traverse the ranch. (Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax.)

LOOKING DOWN from fire patrol truck on dirt road. Below is the Bolema Club duck pond where they feed ducks for hunting. At far right is a duck blind where members shoot. The pond is located on the Wildcat Ranch adjacent to the Lakes Ranch on the north. Double Point shows at top center. The Bolema Club has a dog kennel for hunters and is putting in picnic tables in hills above ,shaded by fir trees. Fire Department must aprove all campfire areas.

WILDCAT LAKE, the largest of the fresh water lakes on the property, is leased as a part of Wildcat Ranch by the Bolema Club from Mr. Tevis. The club keeps boats at its pier and charges each member $1.25 per pound for each fish he gets. Tule reeds grow along edges, and at far end mallards rest on wooden walk. All the lakes are deep, being fed by springs in the hills. The ocean lies beyond the far rim of the lake.

her laurels. She was driven by an urge to get to the source of heavy ice. She wanted to see the North Pole and finally in 1955 she succeeded. This time her expedition was by air. She chartered an American DC4 plane with an American crew and began preparations. She explained: "It took much forehanded work and detail. No one ever had a finer crew than I did." Thor Solberg, a Norwegian-born American citizen got the plane and the crew. With us was the late Gen. Finn Lambrechts, a Norwegian who had been with us in the search for Amundsen."

Miss Boyd started the flight from Oslo. "We flew to Bodo, refueled there. We took on every drop we could take. We had extra fuel tanks. We kept at 9,000 feet and reached the North Pole in the brilliant sunshine. Pack ice and polar ice (sea water) in all directions, very little open water. The flight was 16 hours from Bodo to the North Pole and back." This was the first privately financed flight over the North Pole and Miss Boyd's was the first plane ever flown from the mainland of Norway.

In June of this year Miss Boyd became the first woman ever to become a honorary member of the American Polar Society and the seventh person ever to receive the honor. She has been a member of the board of the society for 12 years. Dr. Thomas C. Poulter of Palo Alto, a vice president of the society and head of the Poulter Laboratory at Stanford Research Institute, in making the presentation, said: "Miss Boyd has contributed more to our present knowledge of the Greenland area of the Arctic than any other explorer . . ."

Last year Miss Boyd made an extensive world tour, Hong Kong, the Portuguese colony of Macao on the China Coast, Saigon, Bangkok, Cambodia, Angkor, Kashmir, Afghanistan, Turkey were among the places she visited.

Miss Boyd is frequently called upon to address scientific groups, and in 1949 she addressed the International Geographical Congress in Lisbon, when she showed her maps and photographs. In Warsaw, Poland in 1934 she likewise served in this capacity.

Early this year Miss Boyd was honor guest and speaker at a dinner given in Philadelphia by that city's geographical society for Cmdr. William Anderson, skipper of the submarine Nautilus, which sailed under the Polar ice cap.

The honors and recognition bestowed on Miss Boyd fill almost three inches of small type in her biography in Who's Who in America. She was given the honorary degree of LL.D. at University of California and at Mills College; decorated Chevalier Legion of Honor (France) St. Olaf of Norway, awarded Andree plaque by Swedish Anthropolical and Cullum gold medal by American Geographical Society; medal of King Christian X of Denmark; received Certificate of Appreciation from United States Army; was made a Fellow of American Geographical Society, Royal Geographical Society; Royal Horticultural Society (London).

I was present at the testimonial dinner given Miss Boyd in January, 1939, when her native city, San Rafael, showed its pride and appreciation by making her an honorary citizen. In 1958 she was made a member of the Association of American Geographers, and she is an honorary member of the California Academy of Sciences.

Never have I known anyone with such a wide variety of interests as Miss Boyd. A patron of the arts, for approximately 20 years she was a member of the board of the San Francisco Symphony. She is a past president of the Marin Music Chest and a charter member of Marin County Historical Society. She is an honorary member of Marin Garden Club and San Francisco Garden Club, member of American Society Photogrammetry, American Society of Women Geographers, California Botanical Society, National League of American Pen Women, National Institute of Social Science and Colonial Dames of America. Her clubs include Burlingame Country Club (Hillsborough), Sulgrave (Washington, D. C.), Thursday Musical Club (Marin) and San Rafael Improvement Club, of which her mother was a founder.

Seeing Miss Boyd at the opening night of the San Francisco opera, in a glamorous gown and wearing gorgeous jewels and furs, it is difficult to visualize her in the heavy garb of an Arctic explorer. She entertains in lavish fashion at "Maple Lawn" and there she has been hostess to many famous people.

She is a gracious hostess, and her friends often spend a week or more with her. However, she told me: "I am never lonely. I never get bored."

"Maple Lawn" is a delightful reflection of the life of four generations of Miss Boyd's family, and she takes great pride and personal interest in it. She has retained the charm of the past in the house but accentuated it with soft backgrounds and lighting. It is filled with family treasures and objets d'art, from different parts of the world. The elegant sitting room and parlor are filled with lovely chairs, sofas and tables of the Victorian period. Paintings and family portraits are on the walls. Displayed, too, is a marvelous collection of beautiful old fans.

The walls of the dining room are decorated with 17th Century Swedish murals, and when Miss Boyd entertains at luncheons and dinners, exquisite china is on the long table. In the corners of the room are tall silver candelabra, duplicates of those Miss Boyd saw in a Greek Orthodox Church in southeast Poland.

The huge library, which houses Miss Boyd's vast collection of maps, pictures of her expedition and famous people who are her friends, and her rare books, is a modern addition. Here, too, is a grand piano. Miss Boyd is generous in offering her home for cultural affairs and in the library the Thursday Musical Club usually has its opening program of the year.

And everywhere throughout the home are flowers from Miss Boyd's beautiful gardens. The gardens and the magnificent old trees on the estate are her pride and joy. Some of the trees were planted by her great grandfather. Others, many of them magnolias, were brought from different parts of San Rafael, when they were threatened with destruction when old estates were being subdivided. In the hot houses and green houses, rare plants are grown.

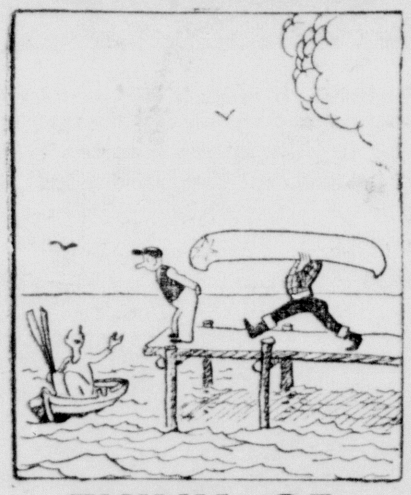

Miss Boyd has always closely identified hirself with the city in which she was born. Her parties on Christmas Eve, when she entertains San Rafael officials, members of the police and fire departments and the Highway Patrol, and the merchants, are traditional.

When Miss Boyd escorted me to the massive front door, following our long talk, I asked, have you any relatives?" Her face saddened as she answered: "Mrs. Donnelly, I'm a freak. I haven't a living soul in the world." Quickly, without realizing how it sounded, I said: "What a wonderful ancestor you would be." The thought I had meant to convey by my blunt remark was that Miss Boyd is a woman to whom anyone would be proud to be related and would bask happily in the glory of her achievements.

RANCH

more than 4,000 acres, some believe, is the heart of the 35,000 acres along the West coast from Pt. Reyes south, that the U.S. Congress is considering turning into a national recreation area.

Now it is private property, closed to the public, and it operates as a cattle ranch. The adjacent Wildcat Ranch, Mr. Tevis has leased to the Bolema Club, whose members hunt pheasant and duck on the ranch and fish in Wildcat Lake.

The property is accessible only by rough dirt roads, some of which were built by the Army after World War II, when a group of men was stationed on the hilltops along the ocean to man guns mounted in caves. Some of the military buildings still stand on the Ranch of the Lakes, abandoned when the Army left.

When the sun shines after the fog lifts back from the land toward the ocean, the climate on the ranch is warm and pleasant, with a slight breeze blowing the grassland and rippling the water. Down on the beach the wind is stronger and the breakers are high and loud. Wildcat beach is clean and covered with fine light colored sand. Driftwood lies strewn along the three-mile stretch along with an occasional salt-washed log.

The Tevis house is situated about two-thirds of the way below the crest of the hills, a short distance south of Bass Lake. Down the dirt road is the foreman's house, and behind it are two small lakes, which have a green scum along their edges and are not usable.

Along Bass Lake large white rocks protrude. Louis Bloom, Assistant County Fire Chief, called them chalk rocks and he said that they are found along that coastal area up to Drake's Bay. He also pointed out the alder trees, covered with berries, growing from the edge waters of the lake.

Aside from an occasional horseback rider, fire truck or ranch car, the coastal acres that comprise the Ranch of the Lakes remain a quiet wilderness, fog-bound by night and sunny by afternoon.

FOLK SONGS will be on the program when Tiburon Playhouse Guild presents "An Evening of Folksongs and Ballads" by David Coxwell. Dave plays the banjo and the guitar in accompaniment. Here he practices on seawall at Belvedere. The program will be held at 8:30 p.m. on Thursday.

Folk Ballads In Tiburon

The Tiburon Playhouse Guild is presenting "An Evening Of Folksongs And Ballads" with David Coxwell on Thursday. The program will present a cross-section of humor, sadness and storytelling in the traditional folk style.

Dave is from San Mateo and attends Whitman college in Walla Walla, Wash. He has been singing in nightclubs in Seattle and Portland and on the Peninsula. He accompanies himself on the four string banjo and the six string Spanish guitar.

The program is produced and directed by Michael Leibert, of Belvedere, a student at Whitman college also.

Tickets are on sale at Leonard Linn's in Tiburon and the Sausalito box office. They will also be sold at the door. All seats are reserved. The curtain is at 8:30.

TO FLOAT on his back, Johnny squats in waist-deep water until his shoulders are below the surface. With his head tiled back and ears in water so that he is looking straight up, he stretches his arms to his side with the palms up. He then lifts his hips as close to the surface as possible to put him in the back float position. To do the back glide, illustrated in this picture, he takes the squatting position to do the back float and pushes back hard.

THE BACK KICK GLIDE, shown here, simply adds the "steamboat" kick to the back glide. He should be able to move at least two body lengths before going on to the next step. Care must be taken to prevent him from kicking into deep water.

NOW JOHNNY is ready for a back stroke, finning. From their position as in the back glide, his hands should be moved up along his body for a distance of two or three inches. Then have him turn them out so that the palms are facing toward the feet, and, without stopping, push them back into place. The movement should be continued without interruption. When he adds the kick to this movement he will be swimming on his back.

THE CRUSADERS, by Walter Buehr; G. P. Putnam's Sons, ages 8-14, 95 pp., $3.

Reviewed by Lee Adams.

Rending the air with their cry, "God wills it!", the First Crusaders set off on a journey which Walter Buehr terms in an introductory statement, "the holiest and most brutal journey in history."

However holy the aim of recapturing the Holy Land from the Moslems may have been, the means of attaining this aim as herein recounted scarcely hint at a Christian code of ethics. The tale is largely one of the Crusaders' continuous pillaging and plundering of innocents, allies, and enemies alike.

FORTUNATELY, the author does not pursue moral justification in the main body of the book, but rather restricts himself to the role of chronicler of the times. In fact, the book's strength is derived from the author's reportorial style and careful research. Events compelling in and of themselves are not encumbered with unncessary literary flourishes. A simple and direct, yet well-informed approach recreates for the reader the actuality of the generally romanticized days of mailed knights.

THE SAWBWA AND HIS SECRETARY, by C. Y. Lee; Farrar, Straus and Cudahy, $3.75, 245 pp.

Being secretary to "sort of a rajah" can have its pleasant moments, certainly its humorous ones, and Sausalito author C. Y. Lee savors to the extreme each happy and unusual event as aide-to-camp to a flighty and unpredictable monarch in a small state on the China-Burma border.

This, incidentally, is a book you can put down but one you will return to, at leisure, to enjoy a short mental chuckle. Broken into 12 chapters, each holding up independently of the other, the book deals with such diversities as battle between monks and a Communist, the young rajah's sex problem, a lovesick man who robs a robber, garlic dishes, and badminton.

All this is told in a gentle lucid style that makes for rapid and enjoyable reading. Not exciting but pleasant.

MY PHILOSOPHICAL DEVELOPMENT, by Bertrand Russell; Simon & Schuster.

Russell was about 16 when he wrote (in a notebook kept in his own variety of Greek shorthand lest it shock some member of his family) that "it is extraordinary how few principles or dogmas I have been able to become convinced of." That was one of the first recorded judgments of a philosopher who has had an extensive effect on 20th century thought. This book is Earl Russell's review of what he calls his "retreat from Pythagoras" — a progression from mathematics into more general fields in search of a broad understanding of life. Pitched primarily to the professional philosopher or advanced student, the book can also be rewarding to any reader who sticks with it.

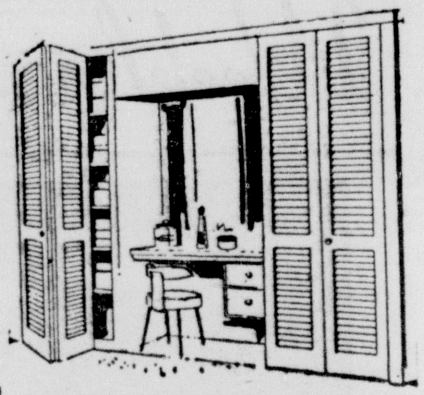

SHADES OF SUBURBIA—"Suburbia" is the name of this sleek new line of correlated furniture. Dining group of Danish styling includes table, chairs, buffet and china cabinet sculptured in walnut with easy-to-keep low gloss finish. Suburbia comes in 62 variations on the theme, many interchangeable between living room, dining room and bedroom. Lamps, draperies and carpets are coordinated for a complete interior decoration package.

Lowly Earthworm Can't Do It All

The lowly earthworm, we're told, is a sign that all's well with your garden soil, which may be true. The oft-heard recommendation to import earthworms to aerate your soil, however, is erroneous. They help keep a good soil in condition, but cannot make a bad soil better.

In fact, where compaction exists, earthworms are unable to exist. There's no substitute for working humus (peat, manure, compost, etc.) into compacted soil. Once this has conditioned the area, earthworms will appear of their own accord. Try it and see.

Why Did My Dacron and Wool Suit Stain?

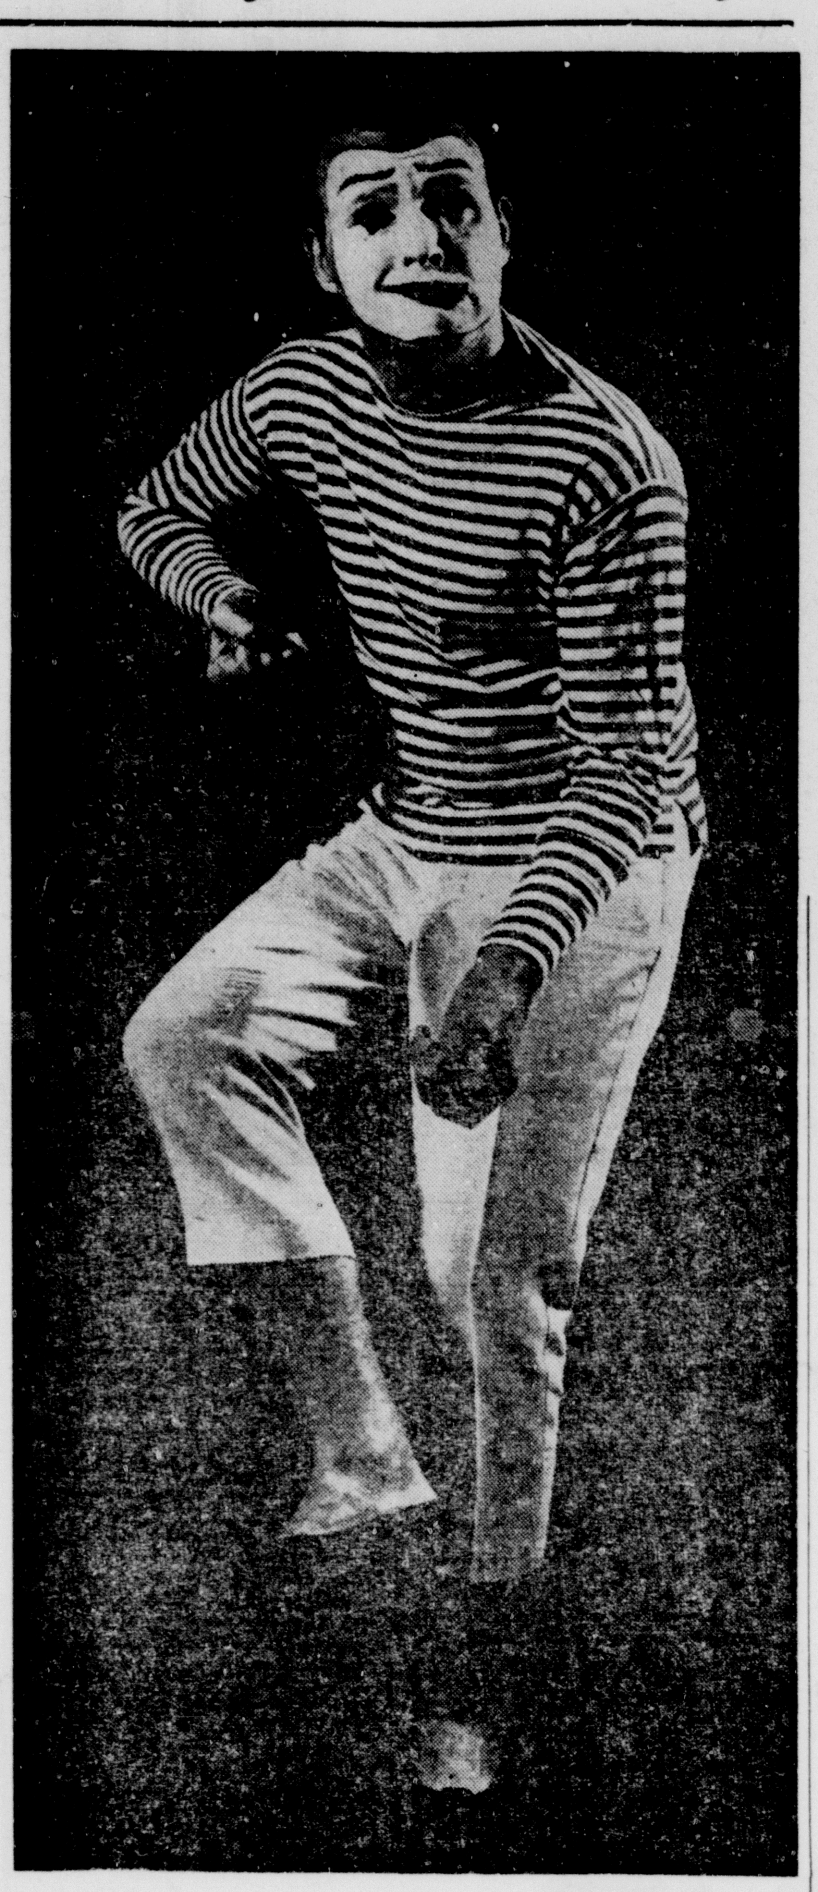

Dear Mrs. R. C.: You say that you know you did not spill anything on your suit, but when it was pressed, an "oil stain" appeared. The truth is, the stain probably was not "oil." Such a stain appears in Dacron and wool blend women's and men's suits and women's dresses, too. It also appears in blends of Dacron with rayon or cotton. Sometimes it seems like the discoloration of a dye stain. At times the damage occurs in the tailoring of the garment. At other times it happens during home pressing, if the iron is too hot.

The garment trade knows this problem and has techniques for tailoring, busheling and finishing. The home sewer or the custom tailor are the ones who have difficulty in tailoring and pressing these fabrics.

Fabrics of Dacron blended with rayon, cotton or wool require special care, especially two-toned piece-dyed fabrics They appear and feel like wool, but should be pressed with an iron at the rayon setting (250-300 degrees F.) Pressure on the fabric should be light and the iron contact with the fabric should be as brief as possible. Press the fabric on the wrong side, but if pressed on the right side, use a dry press cloth. Double thicknesses of the fabric may produce a shine or glazing which are more visible on light or dark solid shades than on checked, plain or heathered fabrics.

Remember, in home handling, that many synthetic fabrics are very susceptible to heat. You should watch your iron temperature carefully if you expect your lovely new fabrics to serve you well.

"LANGUAGE OF SILENCE"—One of the oldest modes of human expression, the pantomime, will be presented by Bernard Bragg tomorrow at 4:30 over KPIX (Channel 5). No words will be spoken on the program entitled "The Language of Silence." Bragg, a teacher at the California School for the Deaf, has been deaf himself since birth.

Television's Religious Shows No Longer Dull Amateurish

NEW YORK, (AP)—The experiences of Doris Ann, one of the few women producers in network television, demonstrates her remark that "nobody can call TV religious programs dull any more."

As supervisor of all NBC-TV religious programs — "Frontiers of Faith," "The Eternal Light" and "The Catholic Hour" — Miss Ann says she has the cooperation of all religious faiths in presenting professional shows that deal with contemporary human problems.

But, like all TV shows, religious programs can have their very human problems too.

There was, for example, the time Sal Mineo and several other young actors were costumed and made up to look like toughs for a taped "Frontiers of Faith" program dealing with juvenile delinquency.

They went out to eat after rehearsal and didn't come back as show time approached. Finally someone dashed out frantically in search of them. The "juvenile delinquents" had been prevented from entering NBC elevators by elevator operators because they obviously looked like juvenile delinquents.

But human problems are minor compared with some of the zoological problems confronted on "Frontiers of Faith." Like many another TV show, it has had its share of troubles with flies.

Miss Ann insists, however, that the flies which somehow get into "Frontiers of Faith" studios are the most brazen. On one show, as the camera moved in for a closeup of an open Bible, a fly alighted on it and strolled about the page.

There was the case of the lazy white mice in "The Story of Louis Pasteur." The script required them to race madly on a treadmill. But someone fed them too much before the program, and they fell asleep and refused to stir.

On the other hand, there was the case of the boa constrictor who refused to be lazy during the telecast of "The Story of Adam and Eve." The nonpoisonous snake was supposed to lie torpidly in a sand box. But he wouldn't and so a hand kept reaching out and pulling him back.

Thanks in a large measure to efforts, religious programs generally have become as professional as any commercial shows.

"Nobody can call religious shows amateur any more," she says. "They use the same writers, actors, and technicians you get on high budget commercial programs."

Artistry by Drexel at

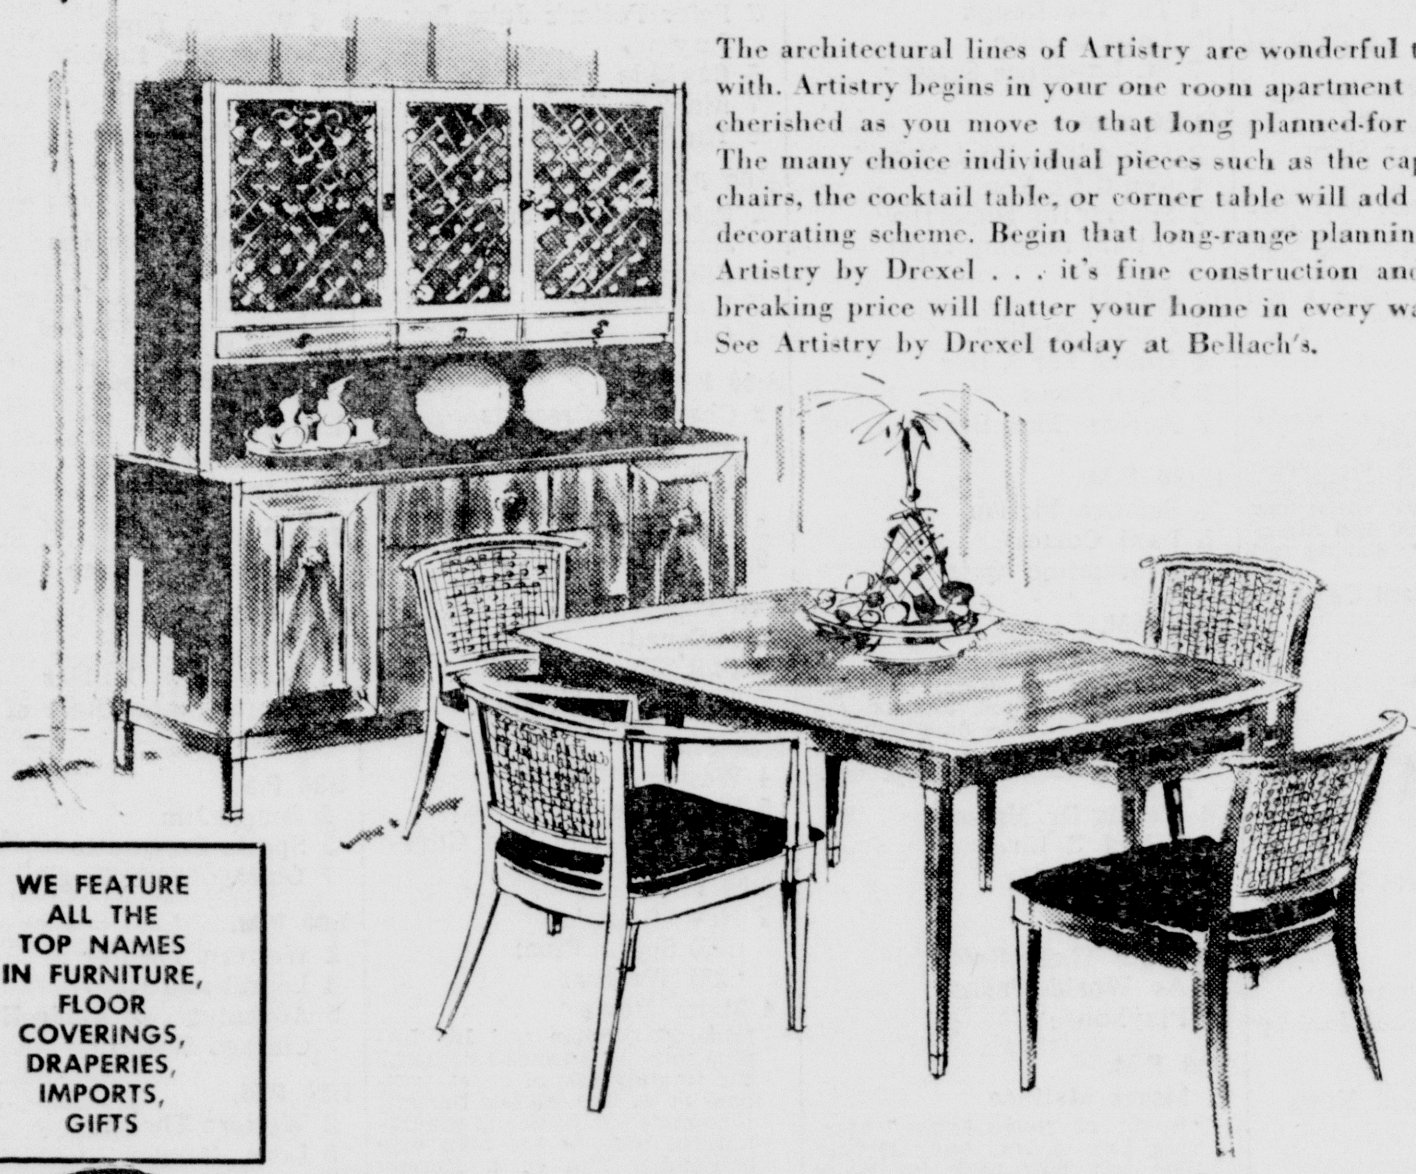

Sophisticated walnut, softly bright, in a new golden spice finish . . . contemporary and elegant. The magnificent Travertine Marble tops imported from Italy, the pressed swirl glass from Germany and the mellow cane accents will give a new kind of beauty to your home. Carved pulls in a Byzantine design are centered by gleaming brass. Burnished leather chair seats are sculptured by the same design. Just one of many examples of the finest in furniture as shown at Bellach's.

furniture internationally-minded...for people in love with their home

A Visit to Bellach's Drexel Gallery Is a "Must"

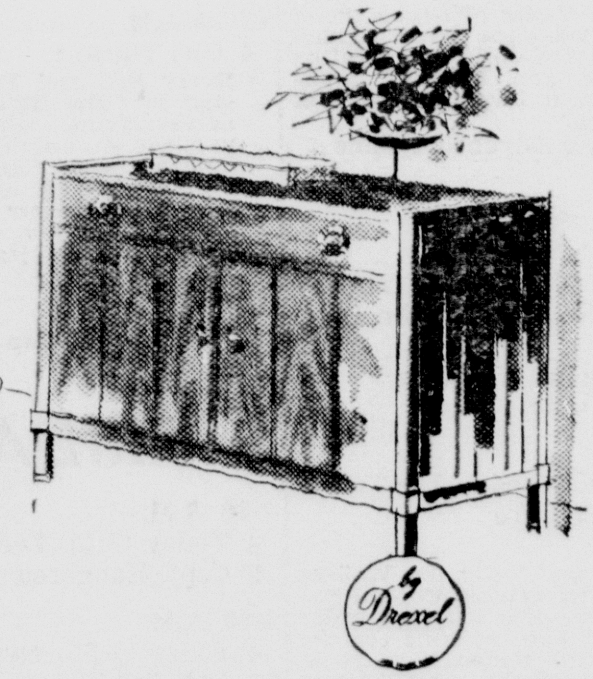

The architectural lines of Artistry are wonderful to live with. Artistry begins in your one room apartment and becomes more cherished as you move to that long planned-for dream house. The many choice individual pieces such as the captain's chairs, the cocktail table, or corner table will add spice to your decorating scheme. Begin that long-range planning with Artistry by Drexel . . . it's fine construction and non-budget breaking price will flatter your home in every way. See Artistry by Drexel today at Bellach's.
